A VERY JOVIAL OLD GENTLEMAN, Santa Claus, paid a visit to East Liverpool Friday night to serve as grand marshal of the annual Christmas parade held by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and East Liverpool Merchants Association to usher in the Yule shopping season. Thousands of district residents jammed downtown streets to view the more than 60 units in the procession. In the top picture, Santa is shown on the Jaycee float which led the parade. The fairly tale of Hansel and Gretel was portrayed in the float at the bottom left, entered by Smith & Phillips. The large tree of lights at the bottom right was erected by the D. M. Ogilvie Co. on the corner of its store and was turned on last night for the first time as were the city's decorations. Police Chief Americo Radeschi estimated the crowd at 15,000.

Accede To Request For Postponement Of Military Parley

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has acceded to Finnish President Urho Kekkonen's request to postpone military talks which the Soviets had suggested to deal with what the Kremlin called a war danger in the Baltic, Finnish sources said today.

The decision will be announced simultaneously during the day in Helsinki and Moscow, the sources said.

Kekkonen returned to Moscow today after a conference with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in the Siberian city of Novosibirsk.

The Finnish president had gone to the Soviet Union to see Khrushchev after Moscow proposed the military talks Oct. 30.

A Finnish official said Kekkonen told Khrushchev at their meeting Friday that such consultations would provoke greater tension in the Baltic at this time.

Kekkonen agreed, at Khrushchev's request, to keep a watchful eye on developments in the Baltic with a view to joint consultations with the Soviets at any alarming development.

The Soviets in their note to the Finns said there was danger that war would develop from West Germany's rearming, and consultations were required under the Friendship and Mutual Assistance Treaty negotiated in 1948.

The agreement to postpone consultations was reached after long talks in a forest cabin outside Novosibirsk where Khrushchev is on a visit to try to speed up agri-

President Meets Soviet Editor In Closed Interview

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) —President Kennedy becomes today the first U. S. president to grant an exclusive interview to a Soviet journalist, Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law.

Kennedy will receive Alexei T. Adzhubei, editor of Izvestia, an official Soviet newspaper, at 10 a.m. in the living room of his summer home.

In advance of the interview, Adzhubei, speaking through an interpreter, said he hoped it would help improve U.S.-Soviet relations. By virtue of his editorship of the Soviet Union's official organ and his marriage to Khrushchev's daughter, he is regarded as his country's foremost journalist.

Asked what he hoped to accomplish by the interview, Adzhubei said: "As a newspaperman, as a journalist, as a Soviet citizen, I would like very much that this interview facilitate improvement of our relations because the destiny of the world depends upon relations between our nations."

He added that he hoped to publish the entire text of the interview, but said this was up to the President to decide.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger made it clear that he not only had no objection to publication of the full text, but would welcome it. He said Kennedy had fixed no limit on the length of the interview.

After the text, as published in Izvestia, has been translated and compared with the official U.S. transcript, it will be released to the U.S. press.

Salinger said that to his knowledge no other American president had given an interview to a Soviet newsman.

Three American newspapermen have had interviews with Khrushchev this year—columnists Walter Lippmann and Drew Pearson, and C. L. Sulzberger of the New York Times. Their reports were widely printed in this country.

Kennedy was represented as hopeful what he tells Adzhubei will get similar dissemination in the Soviet Union.

Receives Security Council's Support To Carry Out Aims

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Acting Secretary-General U Thant has made plain he will use his powers to train the Congo army and stamp out secessionist moves in any part of that country, despite Soviet efforts to limit U.N. authority.

U Thant spelled out his position Friday night in his first speech to the Security Council since he became U.N. chief after two Soviet vetoes had killed U.S. efforts to give him a broader hand in the Congo.

The Soviet Union warned U Thant that it would be watching closely to make sure he does not go beyond the mandate of the council.

The council finally adopted a watered-down Asian-African resolution demanding that secessionist activities "cease forthwith" in Katanga alone and empowering U Thant to use force if need be to drive out foreign mercenaries.

220 Killed As Highway Deaths Rise

By The Associated Press

Traffic	220

Traffic deaths on the nation's streets and highways climbed relentlessly today as the four-day Thanksgiving holiday weekend entered its third day.

Traffic deaths totaled 220 since the period began at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday. Fires have taken at least 22 lives and 40 others have died in miscellaneous accidents.

Driving was made hazardous in Oregon and northern California by rain and heavy snow and in New York State and New England by rain and snow showers. Elsewhere most roads were in good driving condition.

The 102-hour holiday period, for tabulating purposes, ends at midnight Sunday.

The National Safety Council did not make an estimate of traffic fatalities for the four-day period, but it said traffic deaths during a nonholiday weekend of the same length would total 450 at this time of year.

A survey by The Associated Press during a 102-hour nonholiday weekend showed 462 traffic deaths, 37 killed in fires and 106 fatalities in miscellaneous mishaps for an overall total of 605. The survey covered the period from 6 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 8, to midnight Sunday, Nov. 12.

Parking On Mulberry To Be Banned Sunday

Parking on Mulberry St. will be banned after 2 a.m. Sunday to permit the city's mechanical sweeper to clean the street, Safety-Service Director Robert Owen said today.

Owen asked residents not to park, explaining the parked autos hamper the sweeper's operation.

Where Is 'Roger Smith?' That's Murder Mystery

Who is "Roger Smith?", the self-identified hunter who discovered the body of murdered Nancy Lee Chandler Boyd near Beaver Creek Nov. 15.

Why did he fail to meet police at the lonely site later as he promised?

Columbiana County Sheriff Russell VanFossan and police officers would like to know.

Not that "Smith" would necessarily be liable to arrest on any state charge in connection with his failure to provide further information on how he found the body of the teen - aged mother. Her estranged husband, William Boyd Jr., has admitted beating and shooting her with a shotgun.

Prosecutor G. William Brokaw and Sheriff VanFossan say there is no state law which would apply in the case — "Smith" did report finding the body and is apparently not withholding any vital evidence.

Boyd, who confessed the Nov. 5 slaying this week after his reactions betrayed him on a lie detector test Tuesday, declared he is not the man who phoned city police headquarters at 12:20 p.m. Nov. 15 to say he had found the body of a woman.

The caller said he was at an outdoor booth in Calcutta, and would meet officers at the site near Beaver Creek after he made a trip downtown. "Smith" never showed up.

Sheriff's deputies checked business places in the Calcutta area afterward, but no one remembers a caller at that time.

Could "Smith" have been a hunter afraid to be mixed up in a brutal crime? Would he have felt apprehensive about his carrying a shotgun and being a suspect?

Whatever the answer, Sheriff VanFossan would like to know. The investigation was not seriously handicapped without the information "Smith" could have given, but it was diverted and left a big question mark around the already sizeable mystery that the polygraph machine and questioning solved six days later.

The sheriff said not much time was wasted trying to locate Smith, and what information he has could have added little to the case.

But his reticence points up an obvious obligation upon citizens which has been stressed by policemen and officials from the FBI to the parttime constable in the Ozark hills — every assistance should be given law enforcement authorities, because it is the citizen's home, safety and way of life which is being protected.

This is what Sheriff VanFossan wants to explain to "Roger Smith," whoever he may be.

Demurrers Entered In Numbers Slip Case

LISBON — Demurrers contending the indictments are based on an unconstitutional law were filed by the deadline Friday in Common Pleas Court by counsel for the Lisbon Salesbook Co. and four of its officers.

The firm and the officials were indicted for "manufacturing or printing numbers' slips" under a new state law aimed at gambling violations, following a raid Sept. 6.

Atty. William Moore Jr., defense counsel, has at least two weeks to prepare for a hearing, and if the state asks for an extension to answer the case might not be heard for as long as a month.

Judge Joel H. Sharp last week refused to quash an indictment against one of the officers because Prosecutor G. William Brokaw and aide, Assistant Attorney General John W. Gleason, said they would not consent.

Rockefeller's Chances Now Seen '50-50'

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea (AP)—A Dutch ship found a gasoline can today in the area where Michael Rockefeller disappeared. It was not determined whether it was one of the two cans used as a makeshift raft by the New York governor's son.

The Dutch royal navy mapping vessel Snellius taking part in the search reported finding the can 20 miles north of Frederik Hendrik Island.

This island is south of the area of Atsj where young Rockefeller set out to swim ashore after his native boat capsized just a week ago.

Rockefeller in attempting the 3½-mile journey through shark-infested waters had fixed together an empty jerrycan and the gasoline tank of an outboard motor as a makeshift float.

Hope of finding the young millionaire-explorer alive is fading, but a Dutch official says there still was an even chance he succeeded in reaching shore and was somewhere in the jungle wilderness.

"We think there is a 50-50 chance he made it to shore," said F. R. J. Elbrink, the Dutch commissioner for southern New Guinea who is leading the search.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, who flew here to help in the hunt, had reportedly planned to return Sunday to Hollandia, the capital of Dutch New Guinea, and then start back to New York.

The search will continue, however.

The Midland cases are William Bradley, rape; John J. Palyan, neglect of support of child, and Robert Sentz, aggravated assault and battery.

Albert Coffey of Rochester and James R. Coffey of New Brighton were charged with burglary by Police Chief Guy St. Esprit of Industry.

Man Facing Trial Found Shot To Death

Victim Identified As Louis Moses Of New Castle, Pa.

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — The bullet-riddled body of a man facing trial in a safe cracking attempt was found Friday in the ruins of an old farm house.

The victim was identified by state police as Louis Moses, 29, of New Castle. He was shot in the head four times.

Moses, who had been missing from his home since Nov. 16, was arrested Nov. 11 in a department store near New Castle.

Police said a burglary alarm went off in Lawrence County jail and officers rushed to the store and found Moses and two other men trying to open a safe. A fourth man was arrested outside in a car.

Moses' body was discovered by two 13-year-old boys, Donald Cunningham of Taylorstown and Thomas Miller of Avella, R.D. 1. The boys had been hunting.

Authorities said Moses' car was found abandoned on the Pennsylvania Turnpike at Zelienople on Wednesday.

Moses was free on $45,000 bond posted by his brother. He had waived a preliminary hearing.

Police said Moses had been picked up for questioning in two burglaries in the New Castle area that netted some $100,000. No charges were filed and he was released.

Parade At Midland Reset For Tuesday

Probe Shows Honest Error In Vote Count

Ballots Overlooked, Columbiana Staff Tells County Board

It was an honest mistake and not deliberate wrongdoing that caused about 60 ballots cast on village offices to go uncounted in Precinct F at Columbiana after the Nov. 7 general election, the County Election Board decided Friday afternoon after an hour-long investigation.

The six women who staff the precinct polling place explained to the board that ballots for village offices were placed in three stacks as part of the counting process and that one pile of ballots was overlooked when the totals were entered in the records.

"We gave them a clean bill of health," Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, commented. "There was no question of the honesty and integrity of the precinct staff. They are all capable workers. But they admitted the experience would be a lesson to them."

The investigation was conducted at the board's office on W. 6th St. by the full membership: Carl L. Stacey, chairman, and Don R. Gosney, both of Columbiana, James L. McSweeney of Wellsville and Charles A. Pike of Lisbon.

The uncounted ballots turned up Monday night when the board conducted a recount of all eight precincts in the village. The recount had been requested by Willard Zellers, Democrat, who apparently lost a Council race by one vote to Harry Oesch, Republican.

The recount showed Zellers was the winner. In the new tabulation of Precinct F, he gained 29 votes and Oesch picked up 26. Substantial gains were shown in the votes cast for 10 others in the Council race, leading the board to assume a "tremendous" number of votes "went uncounted or untabulated."

Inventory Awaited In Loblaw's Entry

Holiday burglars who invaded the Bradshaw Ave. market of Loblaw's, Inc., "probably left behind more loot than they got away with," Police Capt. Robert Pyle commented Friday afternoon as police continued investigation of the entry.

For lack of a final report from the store management, police knew only that the burglars apparently escaped with a variety of premium merchandise and a large quantity of cigarettes.

Apparently frightened away by the arrival of a bread delivery truck between 4 and 4:30 yesterday morning, the intruders left behind a large egg carton which they had loaded with merchandise from the premium display.

The items left behind included five transistor radios, five electric razors, seven wristwatches, 20 wallets, five identification bracelets and watchbands, two sets of men's cufflinks, a pair of pinking shears and a can opener.

The intruders gained entry by sawing a metal bar off a window

For lack of a final report from the store management, police knew only that the burglars apparently escaped with a variety of premium merchandise and a large quantity of cigarettes.

Apparently frightened away by the arrival of a bread delivery truck between 4 and 4:30 yesterday morning, the intruders left behind a large egg carton which they had loaded with merchandise from the premium display.

The items left behind included five transistor radios, five electric razors, seven wristwatches, 20 wallets, five identification bracelets and watchbands, two sets of men's cufflinks, a pair of pinking shears and a can opener.

The intruders gained entry by sawing a metal bar off a window

Lifeline To West Germany

The Autobahn Has Been In Every Crisis On Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—When West Berliners speak of The Autobahn, they mean one of the most heavily controlled and vital stretches of highway in the world.

This lifeline from West Berlin to West Germany cutting across 110 miles of Communist-ruled East Germany has figured in every Berlin crisis. In any East-West talk over Berlin, the Western Allies are sure to demand that it be kept open, along with the isolated city's air corridors across East Germany.

What is it like to travel the autobahn? Among other things, frustrating and monotonous.

I had to produce my passport 35 times just to make the round trip from Berlin to Helmstedt, West Germany.

Nearly all the passport showings were to East German guards who control civilian traffic. The question of Allied access to West Berlin, however, centers around official and military traffic. This is checked only by the Soviet under agreements made at the end of World War II.

Any Soviet move to transfer its autobahn control to East Germany, which the Western Allies do not recognize, might well precipitate the next Berlin crisis.

The first seven passport checks were just to drive from West to East Berlin and back to buy a visa for crossing East Germany. Cost: $2.50.

This was followed by a drive to the western outskirts of Berlin and eight more passport showings for the right to enter the East German highway section.

The sequence was: A token passport inspection by West Berlin police, a drive between coils of barbed wire lining the highway through a short no-man's land, a zig-zag through steel barriers recently installed by the East Germans to slow traffic, two passport checks by East German police barriers, parking, three stops inside an unheated shed for declaring currency, paying the highway toll—$1.25 a car—and other formalities, followed by two more police barriers.

Then off across the 110-mile highway to more of the same at the frontier between East and West Germany, at Helmstedt. The trip back requires another dozen checks, enough to get anyone's passport dog-eared.

Official Allied cars skip most of the multiple controls. The East German guards wave them to special sheds where Soviet officers read their papers.

The most ill-tempered of this multitude of inspectors were the jack-booted Communist women guards directing travelers to parking places. The most businesslike: the West German customs men at Helmstedt.

The most polite, surprisingly enough, was the Communist guard who finally waves you onto the autobahn saying, "Have a good trip and watch for spots of ice on the road."

Despite its importance and despite all the controls, the highway is lonely.

Most of the heavy trucks move at night. There are tourist cars and buses but most such travelers fly into Berlin. Turning off the highway is forbidden except to East German vehicles and there are few of those. Occasionally you pass a line of Soviet army trucks.

The scenery is limited to thin, pine forests, rolling fields and an occasional farmer plowing with a team of horses. Towns are visible only in the distance.

Road conditions range from good to rough. There was no sign of highway patrolmen to enforce the 62 miles per hour speed limit, but travelers say they sometimes appear in swarms.

There are no billboards in the Western sense. The East Germans have placards around their control points plugging recognition of their regime and blasting militarism.

Signs at the last junction heading east show two routes into Berlin. One points left to "Berlin, capital of the German Democratic Republic," meaning East Berlin. The other sign points right to simply "Berlin, Western sector."

Most traffic turns right.

Iowa Girl, 19, Held In Crash

A 19-year-old Iowa girl is being held in city jail today on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident after the car she was driving struck a parked auto in the East End and then stopped in the yard of a nearby home.

Linda Mitchell of Marshallton was arrested by police after the mishap on Harvey Ave. at 6:50 a. m.

She told Patrolman S. E. Hayes she "didn't know what happened."

The officer said the car owned by Bobby Lee Jordan of Marshallton struck the parked car of Carter Tucker of Harvey Ave. in the rear and then continued down the street, finally halting in the yard at the home of Eugene Black.

A Calcutta area woman suffered a possible neck injury in a mishap Friday at 3:52 p. m. on E. 5th St. near Market St., police said.

Sarah Pickering, 58, of Longvue Heights received the injury when the car operated by Roy W. Pickering, 63, was struck in the rear by a car operated by Merle E. Bartram, 19, of Burrows Ave.

Police said Pickering stopped in a line of traffic and was struck by the Bartram auto. Bartram told police his attention was distracted by a man who stepped out in front of him and his car ran into the rear of Pickering's 1962 sedan, damaging the rear end. The front end of Bartram's 16-year-old auto also was damaged, officers said.

Minor damage resulted from a mishap at 11:50 a. m. on St. Clair Ave., officers said.

Ralph W. Copenhaver, 49, of 1116 Jennings Ave., told officers he was passing a car operated by Roy M. Quimby, 45, of 606 St. Clair Ave., who had pulled into the curb.

Quimby opened the door of his car, scraping the right side of the Copenhaver auto, police were told. The left front door and fender of the Quimby auto were damaged, officers added.

Training Of Dogs For Blind Demonstrated At Lions Club

A discussion and demonstration on training dogs to serve as guides for the blind was held for the Lions Club Friday by a Columbus trainer and a city resident who recently obtained a new dog.

Addressing the club at the Travelers Hotel were Walter Doran, a trainer at Pilot Dogs, Inc., which was founded by his brother, Stanley, and Bud Lockett of Fairview St.

The Columbus school is one of eight recognized training centers in the nation, Doran said, explaining that it will train about 40 dogs this year and hopes to increase the number to 50 in 1962.

The school was started by his brother, Stanley Doran, now director, who became blind through illness. Doran said he became interested because of his brother's affliction and now serves as a trainer of the canines.

He explained training dogs as guides was started in Germany in 1917. The first guide dog came to the United States in 1925 and the first school in Minneapolis was founded a few years later.

The dogs were trained from three to five months before being selected as pilot dogs, Doran explained. The animals must first learn how to wear the harness and develop a guiding pull.

They then are trained by repetition to stop for curbs and guide around obstacles, and to handle all normal conditions which their master may encounter.

The final test for the dogs is a mile walk from the school through downtown Columbus, in and out of stores, through revolving doors and riding elevators and buses.

When the dog has completed its training, it is turned over to a blind person and the two work together for a month.

Boxers. Doberman pinschers, German shepherds and occasionally Labrador retrievers are used. Any dog accepted for the training must be home-raised, Doran said, explaining kennel dogs are not suitable since they frighten easily.

The dogs generally came from people who, for a variety of reasons, want to give up the animals.

Females are preferred because it takes a little less time to train them and they are slightly smaller and easier to handle.

Using a blindfolded club member, Doran demonstrated how "Dolly," a Doberman now being trained, could lead him around the room and avoid obstacles.

Lockett explained he acquired the new dog because his other guide, a Doberman, was crippled when struck by a car. The new dog led him through the construction area on W. 8th St. en route to the meeting.

The dog now understands 12 to 14 commands.

Lockett, who has been blind since 1918, said he has traveled all over the country with his dog, including several visits to New York City, Chicago and Cleveland.

Doran and Lockett were introduced by George McCullough, district deputy governor.

Charles Herman, president, announced the Board of Directors will meet Dec. 4 in the annex of the Potters Savings & Loan Co.

The annual Christmas party for needy children will be held Dec. 15 at the hotel with Harold Howard as chairman.

Flood Is Coming

DILLON, Colo. (AP) — Dillon, familiar to tourists driving on U. S. Highway 6 across Loveland Pass, is being forced to move. Waters of a new dam, part of the Blue River Water Diversion Project, eventually will cover the town site. Most of the buildings already have been hauled to the new location six miles away.

Fair Warning

CORTEZ, Colo. (AP) — A variety store in this southwestern Colorado town sells these signs for ranchers during certain seasons: "No hunting. Survivors will be prosecuted."

"The Great Train Robbery" was the name of the first American drama portrayed through the medium of motion pictures. It was presented in 1903.

More than 2.5 billion pounds of dog food were purchased last year. In the nation's supermarkets, dog food, by weight, was the No. 1 canned food seller.

A 19-year-old Iowa girl is being held in city jail today on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident after the car she was driving struck a parked auto in the East End and then stopped in the yard of a nearby home.

Linda Mitchell of Marshallton was arrested by police after the mishap on Harvey Ave. at 6:50 a. m.

The officer said the car owned by Bobby Lee Jordan of Marshallton struck the parked car of Carter Tucker of Harvey Ave. in the rear and then continued down the street, finally halting in the yard at the home of Eugene Black.

A Calcutta area woman suffered a possible neck injury in a mishap Friday at 3:52 p. m. on E. 5th St. near Market St., police said.

Sarah Pickering, 58, of Longvue Heights received the injury when the car operated by Roy W. Pickering, 63, was struck in the rear by a car operated by Merle E. Bartram, 19, of Burrows Ave.

Police said Pickering stopped in a line of traffic and was struck by the Bartram auto. Bartram told police his attention was distracted by a man who stepped out in front of him and his car ran into the rear of Pickering's 1962 sedan, damaging the rear end. The front end of Bartram's 16-year-old auto also was damaged, officers said.

Minor damage resulted from a mishap at 11:50 a. m. on St. Clair Ave., officers said.

Ralph W. Copenhaver, 49, of 1116 Jennings Ave., told officers he was passing a car operated by Roy M. Quimby, 45, of 606 St. Clair Ave., who had pulled into the curb.

Quimby opened the door of his car, scraping the right side of the Copenhaver auto, police were told. The left front door and fender of the Quimby auto were damaged, officers added.

Training Of Dogs For Blind Demonstrated At Lions Club

A discussion and demonstration on training dogs to serve as guides for the blind was held for the Lions Club Friday by a Columbus trainer and a city resident who recently obtained a new dog.

Addressing the club at the Travelers Hotel were Walter Doran, a trainer at Pilot Dogs, Inc., which was founded by his brother, Stanley, and Bud Lockett of Fairview St.

The Columbus school is one of eight recognized training centers in the nation, Doran said, explaining that it will train about 40 dogs this year and hopes to increase the number to 50 in 1962.

The school was started by his brother, Stanley Doran, now director, who became blind through illness. Doran said he became interested because of his brother's affliction and now serves as a trainer of the canines.

He explained training dogs as guides was started in Germany in 1917. The first guide dog came to the United States in 1925 and the first school in Minneapolis was founded a few years later.

The dogs were trained from three to five months before being selected as pilot dogs, Doran explained. The animals must first learn how to wear the harness and develop a guiding pull.

They then are trained by repetition to stop for curbs and guide around obstacles, and to handle all normal conditions which their master may encounter.

The final test for the dogs is a mile walk from the school through downtown Columbus, in and out of stores, through revolving doors and riding elevators and buses.

When the dog has completed its training, it is turned over to a blind person and the two work together for a month.

Boxers, Doberman pinschers, German shepherds and occasionally Labrador retrievers are used. Any dog accepted for the training must be home-raised, Doran said, explaining kennel dogs are not suitable since they frighten easily.

The dogs generally came from people who, for a variety of reasons, want to give up the animals.

Females are preferred because it takes a little less time to train them and they are slightly smaller and easier to handle.

Using a blindfolded club member, Doran demonstrated how "Dolly," a Doberman now being trained, could lead him around the room and avoid obstacles.

Lockett explained he acquired the new dog because his other guide, a Doberman, was crippled when struck by a car. The new dog led him through the construction area on W. 8th St. en route to the meeting.

The dog now understands 12 to 14 commands.

Lockett, who has been blind since 1918, said he has traveled all over the country with his dog, including several visits to New York City, Chicago and Cleveland.

Doran and Lockett were introduced by George McCullough, district deputy governor.

Charles Herman, president, announced the Board of Directors will meet Dec. 4 in the annex of the Potters Savings & Loan Co.

The annual Christmas party for needy children will be held Dec. 15 at the hotel with Harold Howard as chairman.

Flood Is Coming

DILLON, Colo. (AP) — Dillon, familiar to tourists driving on U. S. Highway 6 across Loveland Pass, is being forced to move. Waters of a new dam, part of the Blue River Water Diversion Project, eventually will cover the town site. Most of the buildings already have been hauled to the new location six miles away.

Fair Warning

CORTEZ, Colo. (AP) — A variety store in this southwestern Colorado town sells these signs for ranchers during certain seasons: "No hunting. Survivors will be prosecuted."

"The Great Train Robbery" was the name of the first American drama portrayed through the medium of motion pictures. It was presented in 1903.

More than 2.5 billion pounds of dog food were purchased last year. In the nation's supermarkets, dog food, by weight, was the No. 1 canned food seller.

Over-Producing Of Milk, Dairy Items Cause Worry

By OVID MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high government farm official has expressed concern that over production of milk and dairy products during the next year or two may undermine if not destroy the price support program for these products.

This official, who requested that his name not be used, said the present dairy outlook has many of the aspects of a situation which brought about a collapse 11 years ago in a potato price support program. Potato production expanded and expanded, causing price support costs to mount to levels that brought wide criticism.

As a consequence, Congress ordered the elimination of potato supports.

The official said the dairy situation indicates that one of two things need to be done if the dairy program is to be saved.

One, he said, would be for dairymen to halt expansion in production. The other would be for the government to impose production controls.

However, the second action could not be taken unless Congress authorized dairy controls. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman sought such authority at the last session of Congress but failed to get it.

Milk production has been increasing at a time when per capita consumption is declining. As a consequence, the quantity of surplus dairy products moving into government hands under price supports is increasing sharply. A recent outlook report issued by the department's economic service predicted a further increase in 1962 and an even larger stepup in government purchases of surpluses.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 600,000 livestock and poultry producers are getting Agriculture Department questionnaire cards on the number of types of livestock they are producing and expect to have on hand Jan. 1.

This information will be used by the department in making a report in December on pig production, a February report on farm livestock inventories and other reports on milk and wool production.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports that 1961 marketings of feeder and stocker cattle have just about come to a close.

A livestock market report said receipts of these cattle at terminal markets last week were below the previous week, thus "indicating the possible near completion of the large volume marketings for the 1961 season."

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Agriculture Department research expert said today American farmers need to raise the quality of the hogs they market.

Dr. Theodore C. Byerly, deputy administrator of the research service, said in a talk that only 35 per cent of the hogs slaughtered in this country meet U.S. No. 1 grade requirements compared with 70 per cent in Canada.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What can I do when I happen to mar a finished furniture surface with a hammer?

A. Sometimes you can raise the grain of the wood back into place by covering the area with several sheets of damp wrapping paper and pressing over this with a hot iron. This expands the wood.

Q. How can I remove some lipstick stains from materials

A. With washable materials, these can be removed by laundering in hot water and soap. With unwashables, apply cleaning fluid and immediately press a clean white blotter over it. Look at the blotter and you'll find it has absorbed some of the lipstick. Keep repeating the routine until you can no longer see red on your blotter.

Q. How can I create an old ivory finish on some of my woodwork and furniture?

A. Tint some light ivory paint with raw sienna and burnt umber. After this, apply a glaze coat of raw sienna mixed with burnt umber, and then wipe lightly.

Q. How can I improvise a glue when I have run out of the real thing in my house?

A. Colorless fingernail polish makes a good substitute glue for most purposes.

Teeth, Bones New Story In Flier's Disappearance

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A handful of teeth and a few bones formed the latest chapter today in the mysterious 1937 disappearance of Amelia Earhart, the world's best-known woman flier.

Fred Goerner, 36, a newsman for radio station KCBS here, told a news conference Friday that he had found a shallow grave in the jungle of Saipan Island that contained bones and 37 human teeth.

"We are not sure these are the remains of Amelia Earhart and Fred Noonan," Goerner said, "but Dr. Theodore D. McCown, professor of anthropology at the University of California at Berkeley, has agreed to study them."

Miss Earhart and Noonan, her navigator, were on a flight around the world when she disappeared July 2, 1937.

The last word from her was a radio message: "Have one-half hour fuel and no landfall." She was near tiny Howland Island at the time, some 1,600 miles from Hawaii.

Goerner said Cmdr. Paul Bridwell, Saipan's naval commandant, had offered the theory that Miss Earhart and Noonan were forced down in the Marshalls, then taken by the Japanese to Saipan, where they were imprisoned.

Goerner said the bodies had been buried in Japanese style, only two feet deep.

Thomas E. Devine, a West Haven, Conn., businessman, was a soldier stationed in Saipan in 1944-45. Goerner said Devine told him a native woman had pointed out the shallow grave to him.

Years later, he told Goerner of the incident and that information led him to the grave.

Goerner said the remains were that of a man and a woman and, "from teeth uncovered, doctors indicated they were Caucasians and quite possibly those of Miss Earhart and Noonan."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What can I do when I happen to mar a finished furniture surface with a hammer?

A. Sometimes you can raise the grain of the wood back into place by covering the area with several sheets of damp wrapping paper and pressing over this with a hot iron. This expands the wood.

Q. How can I remove some lipstick stains from materials

A. With washable materials, these can be removed by laundering in hot water and soap. With unwashables, apply cleaning fluid and immediately press a clean white blotter over it. Look at the blotter and you'll find it has absorbed some of the lipstick. Keep repeating the routine until you can no longer see red on your blotter.

Q. How can I create an old ivory finish on some of my woodwork and furniture?

A. Tint some light ivory paint with raw sienna and burnt umber. After this, apply a glaze coat of raw sienna mixed with burnt umber, and then wipe lightly.

Q. How can I improvise a glue when I have run out of the real thing in my house?

A. Colorless fingernail polish makes a good substitute glue for most purposes.

YULE SEASON'S HERE. Over-Producing Of Milk, Dairy Items Cause Worry

By OVID MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high government farm official has expressed concern that over production of milk and dairy products during the next year or two may undermine if not destroy the price support program for these products.

This official, who requested that his name not be used, said the present dairy outlook has many of the aspects of a situation which brought about a collapse 11 years ago in a potato price support program. Potato production expanded and expanded, causing price support costs to mount to levels that brought wide criticism.

As a consequence, Congress ordered the elimination of potato supports.

The official said the dairy situation indicates that one of two things need to be done if the dairy program is to be saved.

One, he said, would be for dairymen to halt expansion in production. The other would be for the government to impose production controls.

However, the second action could not be taken unless Congress authorized dairy controls. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman sought such authority at the last session of Congress but failed to get it.

Milk production has been increasing at a time when per capita consumption is declining. As a consequence, the quantity of surplus dairy products moving into government hands under price supports is increasing sharply. A recent outlook report issued by the department's economic service predicted a further increase in 1962 and an even larger stepup in government purchases of surpluses.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 600,000 livestock and poultry producers are getting Agriculture Department questionnaire cards on the number of types of livestock they are producing and expect to have on hand Jan. 1.

This information will be used by the department in making a report in December on pig production, a February report on farm livestock inventories and other reports on milk and wool production.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports that 1961 marketings of feeder and stocker cattle have just about come to a close.

A livestock market report said receipts of these cattle at terminal markets last week were below the previous week, thus "indicating the possible near completion of the large volume marketings for the 1961 season."

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Agriculture Department research expert said today American farmers need to raise the quality of the hogs they market.

Dr. Theodore C. Byerly, deputy administrator of the research service, said in a talk that only 35 per cent of the hogs slaughtered in this country meet U.S. No. 1 grade requirements compared with 70 per cent in Canada.

Teeth, Bones New Story In Flier's Disappearance

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A handful of teeth and a few bones formed the latest chapter today in the mysterious 1937 disappearance of Amelia Earhart, the world's best-known woman flier.

Fred Goerner, 36, a newsman for radio station KCBS here, told a news conference Friday that he had found a shallow grave in the jungle of Saipan Island that contained bones and 37 human teeth.

"We are not sure these are the remains of Amelia Earhart and Fred Noonan," Goerner said, "but Dr. Theodore D. McCown, professor of anthropology at the University of California at Berkeley, has agreed to study them."

Miss Earhart and Noonan, her navigator, were on a flight around the world when she disappeared July 2, 1937.

The last word from her was a radio message: "Have one-half hour fuel and no landfall." She was near tiny Howland Island at the time, some 1,600 miles from Hawaii.

Goerner said Cmdr. Paul Bridwell, Saipan's naval commandant, had offered the theory that Miss Earhart and Noonan were forced down in the Marshalls, then taken by the Japanese to Saipan, where they were imprisoned.

Goerner said the bodies had been buried in Japanese style, only two feet deep.

Thomas E. Devine, a West Haven, Conn., businessman, was a soldier stationed in Saipan in 1944-45. Goerner said Devine told him a native woman had pointed out the shallow grave to him.

Years later, he told Goerner of the incident and that information led him to the grave.

Goerner said the remains were that of a man and a woman and, "from teeth uncovered, doctors indicated they were Caucasians and quite possibly those of Miss Earhart and Noonan."

Long Live Somebody

The president of the Dominican Republic, which never has been a republic in fact and isn't likely to be one, says his government needs a formula to calm public unrest.

Unless he's lucky, the formula will be a strong-armed police force backed up by an iron-jawed army. And because nothing is trickier to handle than bully-boys in uniform — even tricker than bully-boys in mufti — the individual who tells them what to do to calm public unrest will be a dictator.

At first, only his enemies will call him that. Then it will cross the minds of his friends that he is behaving like a dictator. Before long the whole world will call him a dictator.

At that point he will think he might as well be hanged for a wolf as a sheep and he will admit he's a dictator. When put on the defensive he will explain someone has to keep the Communists at bay, or the anti-Communists, or whoever is trying to get the upper hand and he is the only one who can be trusted.

He will point out the rascality of his critics and his political opponents, a crummy lot full of malice. He will not say so in public, but he will think in private he is an indispensable man.

He will not be able to imagine himself gone, if death overtakes him. The thought of his being killed will be so odious he will give orders to his henchmen to kill everybody who threatens to stir up trouble against him and on occasion will murder with his own hand, to show he means business.

When he reaches this stage, he will be an oppressor with bloody hands and his assassination will be only a matter of time. But the temper of the people he has oppressed in the name of calming public unrest will be so overwrought by then they will go berserk when he dies — and a new dictator then will be needed to calm them down.

In Santo Domingo, formerly Cuidad Trujillo, President Joaquin Balaguer of the Dominican Republic is hoping to keep his countrymen from getting so unruly he will have to slap them down as hard as dictator Rafael Trujillo slapped them. They now feel so good because Rafael and his crew are gone it may take another strong man to cool them down.

Here in the United States, where we still think it's possible to have revolution and responsible government at the same time, our thoughts are getting mixed. First there was Cuba, then the Congo and now there may be the Dominican Republic to prove that a soft head always has trouble coming to terms with an iron hand.

A Good Show

Friday night's parade was in keeping with the tempo which has marked the program designed to enliven the Christmas season here.

It moved at a good pace and presented Santa, music, floats and the other attractions which go to make up a topnotch affair of its type. And, paradoxically as this may seem, it wasn't too long! When you're holding a youngster, a two- or three-hour parade could become a definite challenge.

Last night's event fitted in well with the colorful tree and the bright lights which will decorate the downtown business district from now until Christmas.

There can be little doubt that a lot of effort has been put into the pre - Christmas program. And the results have been gratifying.

Let's Call It A Bargain

When Thanksgiving could have fallen on Nov. 30, as it would have fallen this year without the "fourth Thursday" rule, some people complained because the Christmas buildup started too soon. The complaint isn't new.

Complainants like to refer to "overcommercialization," and it is customary to defer to them when they say this. Christmas, they say, is a religious holiday—and so it is.

But those who stand accused of overcommercializing Christmas have no wish to interfere with its religious significance. They want it to retain all its religious significance. But they also want Christmas to retain its significance as the climax of the economic year—the season of holiday activity—the time when purse strings are loosened and goodwill and generosity are given a free rein.

It wasn't so many years ago that Christmas in the United States passed quietly each Dec. 25. The files of any newspaper published in the 19th century reveal Christmas wasn't important enough to be celebrated as a holiday. It was only Dec. 25 as far as most people were concerned.

It cannot be said in the light of this fact that the Christmas buildup whose evidence is in plain sight before Thanksgiving, and which becomes overwhelming when Thanksgiving is over, has taken away anything from the Christian significance of Christmas.

Exactly the opposite is true. Christmas as we think of it today is a modern creation.

The celebration of Christmas as we know it in this country is a tribute to the "buildup" that some people find objectionable. If they, themselves, were to go back to Christmas 1861, they would be thankful for Christmas 1961—a holiday that has become so deeply meaningful no one can help but be aware of its significance.

Be On The Alert

The Christmas holiday season, for one reason and another, seems to bring an upswing in breakings and enterings and other forms of thievery.

Recent incidents here indicate that this season will not be the exception.

Greater care is called for on the part of the householder and the businessman. Every thing that can be done to discourage robberies should be done.

One thing each of us can do is to report quickly to the police any suspicious actions that might indicate a theft is in the making or has taken place. This doesn't mean to turn loose a barrage of crank calls. But if the door to a home or a business establishment is found open late at night or if something else unusual is noted, a call would be in order.

Men's Fashions, Har!

Men sometimes chuckle at women's fashions, but there are laws concerning men's clothing that are worth a belly laugh.

The American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear reports that:

In Nogales, Ariz., an ordinance prohibits wearing of suspenders;

In Maine, it is against the law for a man to walk on the streets with his shoelaces untied;

In Texas, any man picked up in the street in dress clothes after midnight can be arrested for vagrancy;

In Natoma, Kan., there's a statute to keep anyone from practicing knife-throwing at men wearing striped suits.

If these silly laws confuse you, men, take the advice of an Iowa justice who decreed: "A person, if so inclined, may dress himself in nothing more than the innocence of Eden." The AIMBW wisely advises, "Don't bank on that."

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

We just completed our annual interview on business with the Man Who Built A Better Mousetrap. He isn't doing too good. "I have thought of selling shares in the com pany as a growth stock, promising a broadening of field by producing a trap that will take moose," he said.

"Another way out of my troubles might be through merger routine. I am in such bad shape many big corporations might be glad to merge with me, just for tax write-offs. On the other hand I might raise money and take over U.S. Rivets, Federated Fibre Boat Corp. or Universal Garage Doors."

"What has the mousetrap business in common with such companies?" we asked.

"Nothing. But companies in totally unrelated lines are the ones that seem to be merging," he replied.

We asked about prospects for 1962. "People don't seem to be as bothered aobout mice as they used to be. They have global worries which make a mouse in cellar seem unimportant. Then again it is possible the mice are fewer. My agents tell me they have been scared to death by the warlike behavior of humans generally, and that some have taken refuge in the cellar of the U.N." he explained.

"Won't the U.N. buy mousetraps?" we asked. "No. They merely pass resolutions," he said.

He went on to say that people feel embarrassed these dangerous days when they go into a store and say, "I want a mousetrap," when there are so many more serious problems to distress them. Asked what he was doing to boost business he replied: "I am considering slogans such as 'The World is Threatened by Rats, But Mice Can Cause Trouble, Too,' 'The Happy Home Is a Mousetrap Home,' 'Why Spend Money On Trip to Moon? There may be More Mice There Than Here,' and 'You Will Need Moustraps in Your Bomb Shelter.'"

"How many people are beating paths to a better mousetrap maker's door these days?" we asked.

"At least 50 per cent less. I've closed dozen of paths already," he concluded.

TAX ON TV is proposed to save legitimate theater. Couldn't the money be raised by a tax of a dime a head for all cowboys, sheriffs and detectives, of whom it would seem there are millions.

This actress who went on to fame on stage and screen, and knew the spotlight of Broadway and Hollywood, chose Old Lyme, one of quietest towns in Connecticut, as last home.

Cocktails, Politics At White House

By Victor Riesel

It was a sociable cocktail party as informal as any that might have been held at 5 o'clock in any large household in the land —except for the fact that the house was the White House. This was on the late afternoon of Monday, Nov. 13, just a few hours before 153 people were coming to dinner to mix with the world's great and hear the world's greatest musicians.

Victor Riesel

As in any other domicile, the lady of the House had much to do. She had gathered up Caroline and a toy or two and was carrying the precious load from one part of the "apartment" to the other when the first guest arrived at five minutes to five for the earlier unpublicized, more proletarian cocktail gathering with the man of the House.

The early comer was George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, a man proud of his plumber's heritage.

Mr. Meany was the portly portent of the other guests to come. He was the first of another 25 labor leaders who had been asked to have a friendly drink and a personal chat with President John Kennedy.

The white-tie banquet which was held three hours later made musical history by hearing Pablo Casals, but the earlier cocktail party made real political history. It was a relaxed group which soon filled the Red Room.

THESE WERE the labor leaders who had fought for John Kennedy in the presidential campaign. Now they had gathered at his invitation to talk of battling in the next campaign — 1962 — to keep the Congress Democratic.

By 5:15 there was the usual cocktail party hubbub. Labor leaders who had been needling each other over internal union conflicts gabbed amiably among themselves — and with Democratic party treasurer Matthew McCloskey and chairman John Bailey, as well as a few White House aides such as Ken O'Donnell and, of course, "Mr. President," a year ago known as "Jack."

There, swapping whatever stories and inner chitchat labor leaders swap in a White House Red Room, were Walter Reuther as well as George Meany, Bill Calvin of the boilermakers, Jack Potofsky of the men's clothing workers, David (Pins and Needles) Dubinsky of the ladies' garment workers and some officials of the Committee On Political Education.

IN ONE GROUP or another could be seen Arthur Goldberg and the hatters' Alex Rose, whose name has been synonymous with liberal political science; as well as the Electrical Brotherhood's Joe Keenan and the rival electrical workers union chief, Jim Carey.

It was Arthur Goldberg who had brought them all together and soon he opened with an informal quip-filled talk. In a little while the President spoke.

He hoped again for the support of the people. He had turned to labor, he said because it and its leaders were socially minded and have no vested interests. Labor, he added, is not one-sided.

The President then recommitted himself to the social program of the 1960 platform. He would try to get these proposals through Congress and he needed labor's help to accomplish this.

There are grave international problems facing the country, and its people see the great responsibility of the day. In speaking to you men, he said, he was speaking to a public-spirited group, dedicated to public interests.

Labor leaders are concerned with the interests of the people, he asserted and he wanted to reassure them he would fight for the legislative program to which all there were pledged.

JUST BEFORE the President spoke, Mr. Meany had said that though organized labor was much devoted to domestic problems it was, of course, aware of the gravity of foreign problems these days and would support the President.

Somewhere along here Walter Reuther glanced over at party treasurer, McCloskey. The auto union chief said something about getting ready to get the wherewithal for the fight to elect a Democratic Congress. There were many in the Red Room who have their differences with the "redhead."

Indeed, a few days later Reuther would be flailing them at a public meeting of the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Dept. And everybody there knew that Meany and Reuther were not likely to choose each other as the most popular chap in the class. But in that room there was no disunity. Whatever differences they had, they are united behind the President.

AND THEY TOLD him so. By 6 o'clock it was over — and the President, having chatted informally with small groups of these labor leaders so that he got around to conversing with each man present, left the proletarian gathering to get into white tie and tails. So did three of the union chiefs — George Meany, Dave Dubinsky and Alex Rose.

The day of the overalls as a symbol was gone. Slipping into tails for a formal White House banquet now is as casual a matter as walking into a union day room.

Obviously there was more social significance in that cocktail hour than in all the polite minueting at the Casals musicale.

Wage Increases Due

By Joseph R. Slevin

WASHINGTON

Wages will be going up next year but government experts predict that the increases will not touch off inflationary price boosts.

The officials are basing their cheerful forecast on new studies that suggest that the rise in wage costs will be outstripped by a fresh upsurge in productivity.

They predict that wages will rise no more than 3½ per cent next year but that productivity will jump at least 4 per cent.

Achievement of these increases will mean that industry can pay the higher wages, hold prices steady, and still finish out the year with larger net profits.

The expected productivity gain of more than 4 per cent is substantially larger than the historic average annual increase of 2½ per cent but it's a typical post-recession advance.

Productivity—or output per man-hour—normally surges ahead after a recession as producers begin using new machinery and begin reaping the full benefits of working force reductions and other cost-cutting moves they made while business was slack.

THE SHARPEST productivity gains customarily are realized immediately after a recession and the traditional pattern is being followed this time.

Firm 1961 figures ae not yet available but the government experts are confident that this year's productivity increase was substantially higher than the 4 per cent rise that they anticipate in 1962.

The officials predict that there will be a gradual slowdown in the productivity advance as industry approaches full-capacity operations. They say that productivity will climb much more rapidly during the first half of 1962 then during the final six months.

Their forecast that wage increases will be noninflationary makes an important assumption about the terms that will be accepted by United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald and other union leaders in the coming 1962 bargaining sessions.

Walter W. Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers, repeatedly has said that the administration believes wage increases must not be allowed to exceed productivity gains. The 1962 forecast assumes that the administration ceiling will not be violated.

The powerful Steelworkers will post the sternest test.

Time To Call Halt

By David Lawrence

West Faces Decision On Soviet Intrusions

The Soviet Union now has embarked on a far more dangerous aggression than in her current offensive around Berlin. The aim is to encircle Scandinavia and cut off Norway, Sweden and Denmark, as well as Finland, from association with the West in any military, political or economic ties. This could mean the enforced withdrawal of Norway and Denmark from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It could mean the domination of hitherto neutral Sweden.

David Lawrence

The Soviet procedure, as usual, is to move cautiously step by step to see how the West reacts. The West has been silent thus far. Several days have passed since the Moscow government put its heavy hand on Finland but the rest of the world seems to have accepted without much protest this Soviet intrusion into the affairs of a sovereign independent nation.

Step by step also, as the Communists attempt to encircle northern Europe and keep on pressing in East Berlin, they continue to provoke trouble in Southeast Asia.

They are widening, moreover, their offensive in Latin America as they try to get a foothold in the Dominican Republic through a Castro-type revolution that would give them a dominant position there as in Cuba.

When will the West wake up and call a halt? President Kennedy is reported to be toughening his position, which would be good news. His speech at Seattle, however, had in it a paragraph that was interpreted as the symptom of a wavering attitude. He said:

"But as long as we know precisely what comprises our vital interests and our long-range goals, we have nothing to fear from negotiations at the appropriate time, and nothing to gain by refusing them.

"At a time when a single clash could escalate overnight into a holocaust of mushroom clouds, a great power does not prove its firmness by leaving the task of exploring the other's intentions to sentries or those without full responsibility. Nor can ultimate weapons rightfully be employed, or the ultimate sacrifice rightfully demanded of our citizens, until every reasonable solution has been explored."

AREN'T THE SOVIET "intentions" clear already? What can negotiations by diplomats reveal that has not long since been disclosed? It is the "intentions" of the West that need to be fully proclaimed.

The Moscow government broke faith on its pledge for a moratorium on nuclear testing and now, after having conducted the atmospheric tests it has needed, it is ready to enter negotiations on the condition that the United States refrain from testing.

This is the kind of trap that the Communists like to spring on the West in "negotiations" for they know the western alliance is divided in its counsels.

Today, in fact, the big question is whether in a crisis the West will act in unison. Already there are strong and influential groups in the countries of Western Europe which want to appease the Soviets and take a chance on their being "reasonable."

The real problem is whether to meet the crisis head on. Europeans hesitate to do so. Some American officials think such a course could be fatal and that the time to press hard and face a showdown with the Russians is now — when the nuclear power of the West is preponderant — and not three years hence when the Russians may not only have encircled much of Western Europe but when their nuclear strength may have come up to the level of the west.

IT'S THE SAME old story of hesitation and timidity in international affairs which in the past have characterized the policies of Western Europe.

Winston Churchill ruefully describes this attitude in his book "The Gathering Storm," as he reviews the mistakes in the 1930s before World War II. His analysis, follows:

"History, which we are told is mainly the record of the crimes, follies, and miseries of mankind, may be scoured and ransacked to find a parallel to this sudden and complete reversal of five or six years' policy of easy-going placatory appeasement, and its transformation almost overnight into a readiness to accept an obviously imminent war on far worse conditions and on the greatest scale. . . .

"Still, if you will not fight for the right when you can easily win without bloodshed; if you will not fight when your victory will be sure and not too costly; you may come to the moment when you will have to fight with all the odds against you and only a precarious chance of survival.

"There may even be a worse case. You may have to fight when there is no hope of victory, because it is better to perish than live as slaves."

PLAINLY the time is approaching when a major decision must be made by the West. A war limited to conventional forces means a Russian victory, as they have superiority in land troops.

Mr. Eisenhower, as President, left no doubt that, if any conflict of arms of a major character arose, nuclear weapons would be used by the United States. An explicit reiteration of that policy is essential today if the Soviets are to be deterred in their program of aggression.

Unwanted Windfall

By Raymond Moley

Those lovers of nature who have traveled to the splendid redwood forest in Humboldt County in northern California and have cast their eyes to the east, through a chink among the trees, have seen there the rugged heights of what are known as the Trinity Alps.

Those mountains are largely in Trinity County, which is about 100 miles south of the Oregon border. The only passable highway into that area from the West is from Eureka, on the coast, along the Trinity River.

Half way to the Central Valley, on that highway, there is the small city of Weaverville.

Not far from there is the site of the Trinity Dam.

The building of that dam was the subject of some controversy a few years ago when the Pacific Gas and Electric Company failed in its effort to spend its own money to build it. Federal bureaucrats and official public power people insisted that the federal government foot the bill.

Now the dam is nearing completion and Washington's bureaucracy assumes that Weaverville will be a depressed area, needing more federal money to escape the fate of a ghost town. And so, after the great New Frontier victory in passing the Depressed Areas bill with an appropriation of $400 million, some federal bureaucrats visited Trinity County and decided that federal money should be used to keep Weaverville undepressed.

THEREFORE, recently Weaverville's newspaper, the Weekly Trinity Journal, received exultant telegrams from Sens. Kuchel and Engle and from the district's congressman, saying that Washington had decided that the city was depressed and that money was on the way to save it.

Instead of dancing in the streets, the people of the city were enraged. In an editorial in the Journal entitled "Lie Down and Be Depressed, Damn You," the Journal told the story.

It said that Weaverville wanted no federal money and that it was doing quite well, thank you.

The manager of the bank reported deposits at an all - time high. A new supermarket is to open soon, and the area can use and support several new businesses based upon private funds.

THERE ARE three lessons to be drawn from this bureaucratic and congressional imbecility.

One is that it is a clear confession that when federal money goes into an area, an expectation is established in the minds of bureaucrats that the relief is only temporary and must be followed by continuous federal grants thereafter.

Another lesson is that the New Frontier is in such a hurry to spend the depressed areas appropriation that no real examination of the attitude of the designated areas themselves is made before it decides to pour in money.

FINALLY, if the federal government and the public power politicians had not insisted—with a strong assist from California's liberal Republican Sen. Kuchel—on spending its own money for the Trinity Dam, the P G & E would have built the dam with private money. A burden of at least $60 million on the federal government would have been removed.

Long Live Somebody

The president of the Dominican Republic, which never has been a republic in fact and isn't likely to be one, says his government needs a formula to calm public unrest.

Unless he's lucky, the formula will be a strong-armed police force backed up by an iron-jawed army. And because nothing is trickier to handle than bully-boys in uniform — even tricker than bully-boys in mufti — the individual who tells them what to do to calm public unrest will be a dictator.

At first, only his enemies will call him that. Then it will cross the minds of his friends that he is behaving like a dictator. Before long the whole world will call him a dictator.

At that point he will think he might as well be hanged for a wolf as a sheep and he will admit he's a dictator. When put on the defensive he will explain someone has to keep the Communists at bay, or the anti-Communists, or whoever is trying to get the upper hand and he is the only one who can be trusted.

He will point out the rascality of his critics and his political opponents, a crummy lot full of malice. He will not say so in public, but he will think in private he is an indispensable man.

He will not be able to imagine himself gone, if death overtakes him. The thought of his being killed will be so odious he will give orders to his henchmen to kill everybody who threatens to stir up trouble against him and on occasion will murder with his own hand, to show he means business.

When he reaches this stage, he will be an oppressor with bloody hands and his assassination will be only a matter of time. But the temper of the people he has oppressed in the name of calming public unrest will be so overwrought by then they will go berserk when he dies — and a new dictator then will be needed to calm them down.

In Santo Domingo, formerly Cuidad Trujillo, President Joaquin Balaguer of the Dominican Republic is hoping to keep his countrymen from getting so unruly he will have to slap them down as hard as dictator Rafael Trujiilo slapped them. They now feel so good because Rafael and his crew are gone it may take another strong man to cool them down.

Here in the United States, where we still think it's possible to have revolution and responsible government at the same time, our thoughts are getting mixed. First there was Cuba, then the Congo and now there may be the Dominican Republic to prove that a soft head always has trouble coming to terms with an iron hand.

A Good Show

Friday night's parade was in keeping with the tempo which has marked the program designed to enliven the Christmas season here.

It moved at a good pace and presented Santa, music, floats and the other attractions which go to make up a topnotch affair of its type. And, paradoxically as this may seem, it wasn't too long! When you're holding a youngster, a two- or three-hour parade could become a definite challenge.

Last night's event fitted in well with the colorful tree and the bright lights which will decorate the downtown business district from now until Christmas.

There can be little doubt that a lot of effort has been put into the pre - Christmas program. And the results have been gratifying.

Let's Call It A Bargain

When Thanksgiving could have fallen on Nov. 30, as it would have fallen this year without the "fourth Thursday" rule, some people complained because the Christmas buildup started too soon. The complaint isn't new.

Complainants like to refer to "overcommercialization," and it is customary to defer to them when they say this. Christmas, they say, is a religious holiday—and so it is.

But those who stand accused of overcommercializing Christmas have no wish to interfere with its religious significance. They want it to retain all its religious significance. But they also want Christmas to retain its significance as the climax of the economic year—the season of holiday activity—the time when purse strings are loosened and goodwill and generosity are given a free rein.

It wasn't so many years ago that Christmas in the United States passed quietly each Dec. 25. The files of any newspaper published in the 19th century reveal Christmas wasn't important enough to be celebrated as a holiday. It was only Dec. 25 as far as most people were concerned.

It cannot be said in the light of this fact that the Christmas buildup whose evidence is in plain sight before Thanksgiving, and which becomes overwhelming when Thanksgiving is over, has taken away anything from the Christian significance of Christmas.

Exactly the opposite is true. Christmas as we think of it today is a modern creation.

The celebration of Christmas as we know it in this country is a tribute to the "buildup" that some people find objectionable. If they, themselves, were to go back to Christmas 1861, they would be thankful for Christmas 1961—a holiday that has become so deeply meaningful no one can help but be aware of its significance.

Be On The Alert

The Christmas holiday season, for one reason and another, seems to bring an upswing in breakings and enterings and other forms of thievery.

Recent incidents here indicate that this season will not be the exception.

Greater care is called for on the part of the householder and the businessman. Every thing that can be done to discourage robberies should be done.

One thing each of us can do is to report quickly to the police any suspicious actions that might indicate a theft is in the making or has taken place. This doesn't mean to turn loose a barrage of crank calls. But if the door to a home or a business establishment is found open late at night or if something else unusual is noted, a call would be in order.

Men's Fashions, Har!

Men sometimes chuckle at women's fashions, but there are laws concerning men's clothing that are worth a belly laugh.

The American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear reports that:

In Nogales, Ariz., an ordinance prohibits wearing of suspenders;

In Maine, it is against the law for a man to walk on the streets with his shoelaces untied;

In Texas, any man picked up in the street in dress clothes after midnight can be arrested for vagrancy;

In Natoma, Kan., there's a statute to keep anyone from practicing knife-throwing at men wearing striped suits.

If these silly laws confuse you, men, take the advice of an Iowa justice who decreed: "A person, if so inclined, may dress himself in nothing more than the innocence of Eden." The AIMBW wisely advises, "Don't bank on that."

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

We just completed our annual interview on business with the Man Who Built A Better Mousetrap. He isn't doing too good. "I have thought of selling shares in the com pany as a growth stock, promising a broadening of field by producing a trap that will take moose," he said.

"Another way out of my troubles might be through merger routine. I am in such bad shape many big corporations might be glad to merge with me, just for tax write-offs. On the other hand I might raise money and take over U.S. Rivets, Federated Fibre Boat Corp. or Universal Garage Doors."

"What has the mousetrap business in common with such companies?" we asked.

"Nothing. But companies in totally unrelated lines are the ones that seem to be merging," he replied.

We asked about prospects for 1962. "People don't seem to be as bothered aobout mice as they used to be. They have global worries which make a mouse in cellar seem unimportant. Then again it is possible the mice are fewer. My agents tell me they have been scared to death by the warlike behavior of humans generally, and that some have taken refuge in the cellar of the U.N." he explained.

"Won't the U.N. buy mousetraps?" we asked. "No. They merely pass resolutions," he said.

He went on to say that people feel embarrassed these dangerous days when they go into a store and say, "I want a mousetrap," when there are so many more serious problems to distress them. Asked what he was doing to boost business he replied: "I am considering slogans such as 'The World is Threatened by Rats, But Mice Can Cause Trouble, Too,' 'The Happy Home Is a Mousetrap Home,' 'Why Spend Money On Trip to Moon? There may be More Mice There Than Here,' and 'You Will Need Moustraps in Your Bomb Shelter.'"

"How many people are beating paths to a better mousetrap maker's door these days?" we asked.

"At least 50 per cent less. I've closed dozen of paths already," he concluded.

TAX ON TV is proposed to save legitimate theater. Couldn't the money be raised by a tax of a dime a head for all cowboys, sheriffs and detectives, of whom it would seem there are millions.

Producer making proposal says such a tax on TV would be paid through "soap and soup sponsors."

Behold the theater
Full of hope:
Saved for all by Soup and Soap.

Elsie Ferguson, who died recently, got first big break as star in "Such A Little Queen" by late Channing Pollock and it takes us back to our days as a cub reporter back home when we saw play in the old Hyperion and covered a story of a robbery in Pollock's room in the long-gone New Haven House. This actress who went on to fame on stage and screen, and knew the spotlight of Broadway and Hollywood, chose Old Lyme, one of quietest towns in Connecticut, as last home.

Yes, You!

Cocktails, Politics At White House

By Victor Riesel

It was a sociable cocktail party as informal as any that might have been held at 5 o'clock in any large household in the land —except for the fact that the house was the White House. This was on the late afternoon of Monday, Nov. 13, just a few hours before 153 people were coming to dinner to mix with the world's great and hear the world's greatest musicians.

Victor Riesel

As in any other domicile, the lady of the House had much to do. She had gathered up Caroline and a toy or two and was carrying the precious load from one part of the "apartment" to the other when the first guest arrived at five minutes to five for the earlier unpublicized, more proletarian cocktail gathering with the man of the House.

The early comer was George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, a man proud of his plumber's heritage.

Mr. Meany was the portly portent of the other guests to come. He was the first of another 25 labor leaders who had been asked to have a friendly drink and a personal chat with President John Kennedy.

The white-tie banquet which was held three hours later made musical history by hearing Pablo Casals, but the earlier cocktail party made real political history. It was a relaxed group which soon filled the Red Room.

THESE WERE the labor leaders who had fought for John Kennedy in the presidential campaign. Now they had gathered at his invitation to talk of battling in the next campaign — 1962 — to keep the Congress Democratic.

By 5:15 there was the usual cocktail party hubbub. Labor leaders who had been needling each other over internal union conflicts gabbed amiably among themselves — and with Democratic party treasurer Matthew McCloskey and chairman John Bailey, as well as a few White House aides such as Ken O'Donnell and, of course, "Mr. President," a year ago known as "Jack."

There, swapping whatever stories and inner chitchat labor leaders swap in a White House Red Room, were Walter Reuther as well as George Meany, Bill Calvin of the boilermakers, Jack Potofsky of the men's clothing workers, David (Pins and Needles) Dubinsky of the ladies' garment workers and some officials of the Committee On Political Education.

IN ONE GROUP or another could be seen Arthur Goldberg and the hatters' Alex Rose, whose name has been synonymous with liberal political science; as well as the Electrical Brotherhood's Joe Keenan and the rival electrical workers union chief, Jim Carey.

It was Arthur Goldberg who had brought them all together and soon he opened with an informal quip-filled talk. In a little while the President spoke.

He hoped again for the support of the people. He had turned to labor, he said because it and its leaders were socially minded and have no vested interests. Labor, he added, is not one-sided.

The President then recommitted himself to the social program of the 1960 platform. He would try to get these proposals through Congress and he needed labor's help to accomplish this.

There are grave international problems facing the country, and its people see the great responsibility of the day. In speaking to you men, he said, he was speaking to a public-spirited group, dedicated to public interests.

Labor leaders are concerned with the interests of the people, he asserted and he wanted to reassure them he would fight for the legislative program to which all there were pledged.

JUST BEFORE the President spoke, Mr. Meany had said that though organized labor was much devoted to domestic problems it was, of course, aware of the gravity of foreign problems these days and would support the President.

Somewhere along here Walter Reuther glanced over at party treasurer, McCloskey. The auto union chief said something about getting ready to get the wherewithal for the fight to elect a Democratic Congress. There were many in the Red Room who have their differences with the "redhead."

Indeed, a few days later Reuther would be flailing them at a public meeting of the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Dept. And everybody there knew that Meany and Reuther were not likely to choose each other as the most popular chap in the class. But in that room there was no disunity. Whatever differences they had, they are united behind the President.

AND THEY TOLD him so. By 6 o'clock it was over — and the President, having chatted informally with small groups of these labor leaders so that he got around to conversing with each man present, left the proletarian gathering to get into white tie and tails. So did three of the union chiefs — George Meany, Dave Dubinsky and Alex Rose.

The day of the overalls as a symbol was gone. Slipping into tails for a formal White House banquet now is as casual a matter as walking into a union day room.

Obviously there was more social significance in that cocktail hour than in all the polite minueting at the Casals musicale.

Wage Increases Due

By Joseph R. Slevin

WASHINGTON

Wages will be going up next year but government experts predict that the increases will not touch off inflationary price boosts.

The officials are basing their cheerful forecast on new studies that suggest that the rise in wage costs will be outstripped by a fresh upsurge in productivity.

They predict that wages will rise no more than 3½ per cent next year but that productivity will jump at least 4 per cent.

Achievement of these increases will mean that industry can pay the higher wages, hold prices steady, and still finish out the year with larger net profits.

The expected productivity gain of more than 4 per cent is substantially larger than the historic average annual increase of 2½ per cent but it's a typical post-recession advance.

Productivity—or output per man-hour—normally surges ahead after a recession as producers begin using new machinery and begin reaping the full benefits of working force reductions and other cost-cutting moves they made while business was slack.

THE SHARPEST productivity gains customarily are realized immediately after a recession and the traditional pattern is being followed this time.

Firm 1961 figures ae not yet available but the government experts are confident that this year's productivity increase was substantially higher than the 4 per cent rise that they anticipate in 1962.

The officials predict that there will be a gradual slowdown in the productivity advance as industry approaches full-capacity operations. They say that productivity will climb much more rapidly during the first half of 1962 then during the final six months.

Their forecast that wage increases will be noninflationary makes an important assumption about the terms that will be accepted by United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald and other union leaders in the coming 1962 bargaining sessions.

Walter W. Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers, repeatedly has said that the administration believes wage increases must not be allowed to exceed productivity gains. The 1962 forecast assumes that the administration ceiling will not be violated.

The powerful Steelworkers will post the sternest test.

Time To Call Halt

West Faces Decision On Soviet Intrusions

The Soviet Union now has embarked on a far more dangerous aggression than in her current offensive around Berlin. The aim is to encircle Scandinavia and cut off Norway, Sweden and Denmark, as well as Finland, from association with the West in any military, political or economic ties. This could mean the enforced withdrawal of Norway and Denmark from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It could mean the domination of hitherto neutral Sweden.

David Lawrence

The Soviet procedure, as usual, is to move cautiously step by step to see how the West reacts. The West has been silent thus far. Several days have passed since the Moscow government put its heavy hand on Finland but the rest of the world seems to have accepted without much protest this Soviet intrusion into the affairs of a sovereign independent nation.

Step by step also, as the Communists attempt to encircle northern Europe and keep on pressing in East Berlin, they continue to provoke trouble in Southeast Asia.

They are widening, moreover, their offensive in Latin America as they try to get a foothold in the Dominican Republic through a Castro-type revolution that would give them a dominant position there as in Cuba.

When will the West wake up and call a halt? President Kennedy is reported to be toughening his position, which would be good news. His speech at Seattle, however, had in it a paragraph that was interpreted as the symptom of a wavering attitude. He said:

World Council Of Churches Seeks Clear Paths To Unity

By GEORGE CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

NEW DELHI (AP)—Hurry up and get together. Have patience, it takes time.

These were the conflicting impulses at work today in the General Assembly of the World Council of Churches as it sought to clear new paths toward unity of Christendom.

In part the emphasis on haste stemmed from the younger churches in frontier areas, while the insistence on restraint and careful deliberation was the voice of ecclesiastical elders.

Both views were relayed Friday night to the 198 representatives of Protestant, Orthodox and Old Catholic denominations from around the globe by the Church of England.

"Just as the way of holiness cannot be hurried and the way of truth cannot be hurried so, too, there is concerning unity, a divine patience," said The Most Reverent Arthur M. Ramsey, archbishop of Canterbury.

He said that some Western churchmen took the attitude that "we need just a few simple facts and principles in order to get unity."

"Beware of them," the archbishop said. "It is not just unity, togetherness with one another we seek. It is for unity in truth and holiness that we work and pray. Let that always be made clear."

The Rev. Philip Potter of London, chairman of the Worldwide Youth Federation, said the hesitancy of splintered Christianity to close ranks has created a "perilous situation."

"We are in serious danger of driving young people into despair of the churches and therefore into flight away from them," he said. "This is not a matter of youthful impetuosity and ignorance."

"It is the clear-eyed, agonizing realization that the churches are not willing to manifest the unity, which is not only given in Christ, but which is given here and now, in so much about which there is definite agreement," he said.

The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie

"For 14 years I have not had a day's real health," wrote the beloved author of Treasure Island, "I have written in bed . . . out of it, written in hemorrhages . . . torn by coughing . . . when my head swam for weakness." Yet, "Since I am sworn to live my life . . . I bear a banner in the strife."

He manifested his faith in prayer: "We thank Thee . . . for the hope with which we expect the morrow; for the health, the work, the food, and the bright skies . . . our friends in all parts of the earth . . . give us the strength to encounter that which is to come, that we be brave in peril . . . temperate in wrath . . . and down to the gates of death, loyal and loving one to another.

The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie

The short painful life of Robert Louis Stevenson is a testimony to the love of life.

"For 14 years I have not had a day's real health," wrote the beloved author of Treasure Island, "I have written in bed . . . out of it, written in hemorrhages . . . torn by coughing . . . when my head swam for weakness." Yet, "Since I am sworn to live my life . . . I bear a banner in the strife."

He manifested his faith in prayer: "We thank Thee . . . for the hope with which we expect the morrow; for the health, the work, the food, and the bright skies . . . our friends in all parts of the earth . . . give us the strength to encounter that which is to come, that we be brave in peril . . . temperate in wrath . . . and down to the gates of death, loyal and loving one to another.

World Council Of Churches Seeks Clear Paths To Unity

By GEORGE CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

NEW DELHI (AP)—Hurry up and get together. Have patience, it takes time.

These were the conflicting impulses at work today in the General Assembly of the World Council of Churches as it sought to clear new paths toward unity of Christendom.

In part the emphasis on haste stemmed from the younger churches in frontier areas, while the insistence on restraint and careful deliberation was the voice of ecclesiastical elders.

Both views were relayed Friday night to the 198 representatives of Protestant, Orthodox and Old Catholic denominations from around the globe by the Church of England.

"Just as the way of holiness cannot be hurried and the way of truth cannot be hurried so, too, there is concerning unity, a divine patience," said The Most Reverent Arthur M. Ramsey, archbishop of Canterbury.

He said that some Western churchmen took the attitude that "we need just a few simple facts and principles in order to get unity."

"Beware of them," the archbishop said. "It is not just unity, togetherness with one another we seek. It is for unity in truth and holiness that we work and pray. Let that always be made clear."

The Rev. Philip Potter of London, chairman of the Worldwide Youth Federation, said the hesitancy of splintered Christianity to close ranks has created a "perilous situation."

"We are in serious danger of driving young people into despair of the churches and therefore into flight away from them," he said. "This is not a matter of youthful impetuosity and ignorance."

"It is the clear-eyed, agonizing realization that the churches are not willing to manifest the unity, which is not only given in Christ, but which is given here and now, in so much about which there is definite agreement," he said.

Air Force To Seek Prior Servicemen

Tech. Sgt. James A. Lee, area Air Force recruiter, announced that a special re-enlistment program is effective Dec. 1 for prior servicemen.

The new program offers base of choice, rank adjustment, no basic training or refresher course regardless of former branch of service, travel to base by private car if desired and a 30-day furlough at home for the holidays.

Further details may be obtained by calling Sgt. Lee at FU. 5-5383 or visiting his office in the City Hall.

Stop That Rattle

If the rattling of a flashlight or other metal object in the glove compartment of your car is annoying, here's how to eliminate it. Pad the glove compartment with a layer of foam rubber. First make a paper pattern, then cut the foam rubber to size and glue to the bottom, back and sides of the compartment.

Relief For 400,000

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — Federal bankruptcy referee Byron Pope recently granted judicial relief to 400,000 hungry baby chicks. A Chattanooga firm listed the chicks as "perishable assets" in a bankruptcy petition filed in U. S. District Court — and Pope appointed a temporary trustee to feed them.

it followed the board's instructions to expedite the count on election night, setting up two counting teams. In the process, the ballots on village offices were separated into three stacks. The staff recorded the votes in two of the stacks, but overlooked the third, accounting for the "lost" votes.

However, all the ballots were counted and tabulated on the other races and issues: Fairfield Township, the village board of education, tax levies and proposed amendments to the state constitution.

The village races were listed on a separate "office type" ballot.

The precinct crew "gave a very satisfactory explanation" of the discrepancy, O'Hanlon said. "We went over the poll books and abstracts with them and showed them where they made their mistake," he said.

Meanwhile, the board will begin to mail certificates of election Monday to successful candidates, provided they have compiled with the "corrupt practices act" by filing sworn statements of campaign expenditures. The certificates cannot be issued until the reports are filed, O'Hanlon explained. Dec. 22 is the deadline for the reports.

feat U.S. amendments that would have had the council deprecate "all armed action" against the central Congo government and would have authorized U Thant to help the state reorganize and retrain its army.

The amendments could be interpreted as empowering the United Nations to move against any uprising by Congo leftist leader Antoine Gizenga.

Observers expressed belief, however, that the Soviet vetoes were checkmated by U Thant's assertion that the U.N. force should suppress "all armed activities" and secessionist moves anywhere.

The Burmese acting secretary-general also said steps must be taken toward the "training and reorganization" of the Congo armed forces. He made clear he was carrying out all resolutions of the General Assembly and the council and not just the Katanga proposal.

After U Thant finished speaking, Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin expressed hope the acting secretary-general would "act in accordance with this resolution in cooperation with his chief advisers as he had announced when he was appointed."

IBOP Defeats UMW In Vote Over Union

Employes of Lawndale Industries, Inc., at Mannington, W. Va., have voted to retain the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters as their bargaining agent, rejecting a proposal to be represented by District 50, United Mine Workers.

The IBOP announced the election outcome today, explaining it resulted from a move to seek decertification of the potters' union "in an attempted raid by" UMW District 50.

The Mannington workers voted to retain IBOP Local 77 as their collective bargaining agent. The vote was supervised by the Pittsburgh office of the National Labor Relations Board. The UMW subsequently filed an unfair labor practice charge against management, alleging "inference with free choice" by the employes in the election, but it was dismissed by the NLRB.

None Injured As Gas Pipe Line Blows Up

CADIZ, Ohio (AP)—An 18-inch, high-pressure East Ohio Gas Co. pipe line blew up early today in an isolated area seven miles north of here, sending up a tower of flames that could be seen 10 miles away. No one was injured.

The line, one of six through the county, feeds into the Youngstown station of East Ohio Gas.

Firemen were unable to put out the flames which burned for about two hours until the gas supply was shut off at the Uniontown station in Belmont County and at another station near Scio.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

Check Your Feelings Before They Check You

My wife was trying to start our car. The starter gave a rasping sound — and nothing more happened. I said to myself, "She isn't doing it right." Aloud I demanded, "What are you doing? You're just flooding it." "Yes, dear," she answered meekly. "You show me how." So I took over. But, to my embarrassment, had no better success than she. "There's something wrong with it," I said. "It won't start." "So I see," she commented pleasantly.

DR. PEALE

We sat awhile waiting for the presumed flooding to dry up. But even then the motor wouldn't start. Finally I telephoned for a mechanic.

When the man arrived he took a look under the hood. "Your points are dirty," he said.

"What points?"

"This is a point," he informed me, touching one of them with his finger. He proceeded to clean the points. I got behind the wheel again, touched the starter and instantly the motor was running.

"Is that all you had to do?" I asked in admiration of an efficient man who knew what to do and did it. "Just clean those things off?"

"That's all. Four dollars, please."

"H'm. . .cleaning points pays well doesn't it."

"It's for knowing what to clean off," he replied grinning.

AS I reflected upon the fact that it would be a good idea to check those points every once in a while before they gave trouble, I thought how much the proper care of a motor illustrates the technique for keeping ourselves in condition for efficient living.

There are power points in our presonalities that should be regularly checked to see if they need cleaning. I thought particularly of our mental attitudes. Attitudes coated with antagonism or resentment are like dirty points. They can stop the flow of personal power and prevent our getting anywhere. In fact, if there is too much mental and spiritual corosion they can incapacitate us altogether.

A case in point was that of a professor teaching at a university in the South who developed asthma. It caused him so much trouble that he took a leave of absence and went to a New York City hospital for treatment.

After six weeks in the hospital he appeared to have been cured and returned to the university and resumed his work. But again he developed asthma and was once more forced to go north for treatment. He then began to suspect that maybe climate might be the source of his trouble. But following the suggestion of a friend that perhaps there could be psychological factors, he decided to get counseling. That was how I happened to see him.

We found that his trouble was not a matter of climate. It was a personal relationship. It came out in counseling that at the university where he taught there was another professor, in a superior position and very domineering, toward whom he had developed strong feelings of hostility.

He had been afraid to express his dislike or let it show in any way. As a result his physical system had reacted at a weak point, a physical predisposition to asthma. When it was discerned that this was the case, he willingly undertook the real cure. A spiritual treatment was applied to his attitude toward his domineering colleague.

He prayed for hostile feelings to be lifted from him and was able, in time, to actually pray for the well-being of the other man. He prayed out his fear and hate. It wasn't long until he got over his asthma, this time for good.

A YOUNG couple came to me about a problem of tension and unhappiness. We discussed and discarded various possible explanations of their difficulty. I suggested, "Either one or both of you may have some tieup in your mind or feelings. Tell me, whom do you hate?"

I sure hit the bull's eye that time, for the wife admitted there was someone she really hated, and that someone was her mother-in-law. I urged this young wife to look upon her mother-in-law, not as a mother-in-law, but simply as a human being with problems of her own. I pointed out that it always helps in normalizing our attitudes toward others to think of them as people with people's problems, hopes, sorrows.

When she did this she was not only better able to understand the older woman but her feelings toward her began to moderate as well. It wasn't long before she was cleansed of the hatred.

Then she and her husband became much happier about the personality problem that had been troubling the two of them and until things worked out this way, there had been no ostensible connection between that problem and the husband's mother.

There is no rule of mental hygiene more important than to keep the mind free of hostility and ill will. So it pays to check your feelings on this score if you want your life to keep going well.

Ruth Chatterton Dies; Gained Fame As Actress

NORWALK, Conn. (AP)—Ruth Chatterton, who took a dare at the age of 14 and went on to gain renown on the stage, screen and as a novelist, died in a hospital Friday. She was 67.

Miss Chatterton was hospitalized Tuesday after being stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage as she entertained friends in the large old farmhouse at nearby Redding, Conn., that had been her home for several years.

She had lived alone since the death last year of her third husband, Barry Thompson.

Miss Chatterton made her stage debut in Washington shortly after she attended a matinee with a group of schoolmates.

When she criticized the star's performance, one of her friends challenged her to do a better job. A few days later, Miss Chatterton appeared in the show's chorus.

She was born in New York on Dec. 24, 1893, the daughter of William and Lillian Chatterton.

Miss Chatterton made her New York stage debut in 1911 when she appeared as Isolde Brand in "The Great Name." Some of her later performances were in "The Rainbow," "Daddy Long-Legs," "Come Out of the Kitchen," "A Marriage of Convenience," "Moonlight and Honeysuckle," and "Second Best Bed."

Her last Broadway appearance was in "Idiot's Delight," in 1951.

She began her film career in 1928 in "Sins of the Father" and later appeared in such movies as "The Doctor's Secret," "Madame X," "The Laughing Lady," "Sarah and Son," and "Dodsworth."

cultural production in the Siberian region.

Khrushchev declared in a speech at lunch there that he was concerned about right-wing developments in Finland that appeared to lead in the direction of a greater separation of that country from the close friendship it has had with the Soviet Union in recent years.

The Soviet premier did not outline the history of the case, but the friendship developed after Finland lost two wars during the 1940s and apparently came to a national decision that further conflict with the Soviet Union was out of the question.

A first reflection of the decision came in an announcement carried by Tass from Helsinki today that O. Honka, right-wing candidate for the Finnish presidency, had decided he would not run in the February election.

A communique has been prepared in which Premier Khrushchev restates the views outlined in the note of Oct. 30.

Military negotiations were requested in the note. It was these which Khrushchev agreed to postpone, apparently with assurance of the Finnish president that there would be no policy change in Finland.

The warning from the Soviet side contained in the communique was directed quite as much at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and its two Scandinavian members, Denmark and Norway, as it was at Finland.

in a men's restroom in the northeast corner of the building. Removing a screen and opening the window, they dropped to the floor inside.

The burglars forced open a padlock to gain access to the premium display case. The egg carton containing the loot left behind was found in an aisle leading to a large door in the meat receiving room on the north side of the building.

The intruders rolled a display rack loaded with cigarettes to the rear stockroom, where they unloaded it. They apparently made their exit via a door in the meat receiving room.

The burglary was discovered when the market opened for business yesterday morning.

Ohio's Holiday Traffic Deaths Below Normal

By The Associated Press

Ohio's traffic fatality rate was running below normal as the long Thanksgiving holiday weekend went into its third full day.

At least seven persons have been killed in highway accidents since 6 p.m. Wednesday. But the state average last year was five deaths a day on Ohio's streets and roads.

The Associated Press tallies the fatalities through midnight Sunday.

One death from miscellaneous causes—a workman who fell from a building being razed—also was recorded.

Friday

Willie Richardson, 25, Akron, when his car hit a parked auto there.

Johannes Verhoeven, 29, Columbus, when he fell four floors in a building being demolished there.

Mrs. Jane C. Dennis, 44, of near Nelsonville, when her car struck a guard rail on U.S. 33 north of Athens.

To Start Foreclosure

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — J. F. Paschal, Clermont County auditor, had decided to start foreclosure action to cut down the county's delinquent real estate backlog of $400,250. He said more than half the 4,963 parcels of land involved have been delinquent more than a year, and under a new law he can start action to sell the land to pay the tax.

Air Force To Seek Prior Servicemen

Tech. Sgt. James A. Lee, area Air Force recruiter, announced that a special re-enlistment program is effective Dec. 1 for prior servicemen.

The new program offers base of choice, rank adjustment, no basic training or refresher course regardless of former branch of service, travel to base by private car if desired and a 30-day furlough at home for the holidays.

Further details may be obtained by calling Sgt. Lee at FU. 5-5383 or visiting his office in the City Hall.

Stop That Rattle

If the rattling of a flashlight or other metal object in the glove compartment of your car is annoying, here's how to eliminate it. Pad the glove compartment with a layer of foam rubber. First make a paper pattern, then cut the foam rubber to size and glue to the bottom, back and sides of the compartment.

Relief For 400,000

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — Federal bankruptcy referee Byron Pope recently granted judicial relief to 400,000 hungry baby chicks. A Chattanooga firm listed the chicks as "perishable assets" in a bankruptcy petition filed in U. S. District Court — and Pope appointed a temporary trustee to feed them.

it followed the board's instructions to expedite the count on election night, setting up two counting teams. In the process, the ballots on village offices were separated into three stacks. The staff recorded the votes in two of the stacks, but overlooked the third, accounting for the "lost" votes.

However, all the ballots were counted and tabulated on the other races and issues: Fairfield Township, the village board of education, tax levies and proposed amendments to the state constitution.

The village races were listed on a separate "office type" ballot.

The precinct crew "gave a very satisfactory explanation" of the discrepancy, O'Hanlon said. "We went over the poll books and abstracts with them and showed them where they made their mistake," he said.

Meanwhile, the board will begin to mail certificates of election Monday to successful candidates, provided they have compiled with the "corrupt practices act" by filing sworn statements of campaign expenditures. The certificates cannot be issued until the reports are filed, O'Hanlon explained. Dec. 22 is the deadline for the reports.

feat U.S. amendments that would have had the council deprecate "all armed action" against the central Congo government and would have authorized U Thant to help the state reorganize and retrain its army.

The amendments could be interpreted as empowering the United Nations to move against any uprising by Congo leftist leader Antoine Gizenga.

Observers expressed belief, however, that the Soviet vetoes were checkmated by U Thant's assertion that the U.N. force should suppress "all armed activities" and secessionist moves anywhere.

The Burmese acting secretary-general also said steps must be taken toward the "training and reorganization" of the Congo armed forces. He made clear he was carrying out all resolutions of the General Assembly and the council and not just the Katanga proposal.

After U Thant finished speaking, Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin expressed hope the acting secretary-general would "act in accordance with this resolution in cooperation with his chief advisers as he had announced when he was appointed."

IBOP Defeats UMW In Vote Over Union

Employes of Lawndale Industries, Inc., at Mannington, W. Va., have voted to retain the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters as their bargaining agent, rejecting a proposal to be represented by District 50, United Mine Workers.

The IBOP announced the election outcome today, explaining it resulted from a move to seek decertification of the potters' union "in an attempted raid by" UMW District 50.

The Mannington workers voted to retain IBOP Local 77 as their collective bargaining agent. The vote was supervised by the Pittsburgh office of the National Labor Relations Board. The UMW subsequently filed an unfair labor practice charge against management, alleging "inference with free choice" by the employes in the election, but it was dismissed by the NLRB.

None Injured As Gas Pipe Line Blows Up

CADIZ, Ohio (AP)—An 18-inch, high-pressure East Ohio Gas Co. pipe line blew up early today in an isolated area seven miles north of here, sending up a tower of flames that could be seen 10 miles away. No one was injured.

The line, one of six through the county, feeds into the Youngstown station of East Ohio Gas.

Firemen were unable to put out the flames which burned for about two hours until the gas supply was shut off at the Uniontown station in Belmont County and at another station near Scio.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

Check Your Feelings Before They Check You

My wife was trying to start our car. The starter gave a rasping sound — and nothing more happened. I said to myself, "She isn't doing it right." Aloud I demanded, "What are you doing? You're just flooding it." "Yes, dear," she answered meekly. "You show me how." So I took over. But, to my embarrassment, had no better success than she. "There's something wrong with it," I said. "It won't start." "So I see," she commented pleasantly.

DR. PEALE

We sat awhile waiting for the presumed flooding to dry up. But even then the motor wouldn't start. Finally I telephoned for a mechanic.

When the man arrived he took a look under the hood. "Your points are dirty," he said.

"What points?"

"This is a point," he informed me, touching one of them with his finger. He proceeded to clean the points. I got behind the wheel again, touched the starter and instantly the motor was running.

"Is that all you had to do?" I asked in admiration of an efficient man who knew what to do and did it. "Just clean those things off?"

"That's all. Four dollars, please."

"H'm. . .cleaning points pays well doesn't it."

"It's for knowing what to clean off," he replied grinning.

AS I reflected upon the fact that it would be a good idea to check those points every once in a while before they gave trouble, I thought how much the proper care of a motor illustrates the technique for keeping ourselves in condition for efficient living.

There are power points in our presonalities that should be regularly checked to see if they need cleaning. I thought particularly of our mental attitudes. Attitudes coated with antagonism or resentment are like dirty points. They can stop the flow of personal power and prevent our getting anywhere. In fact, if there is too much mental and spiritual corosion they can incapacitate us altogether.

A case in point was that of a professor teaching at a university in the South who developed asthma. It caused him so much trouble that he took a leave of absence and went to a New York City hospital for treatment.

After six weeks in the hospital he appeared to have been cured and returned to the university and resumed his work. But again he developed asthma and was once more forced to go north for treatment. He then began to suspect that maybe climate might be the source of his trouble. But following the suggestion of a friend that perhaps there could be psychological factors, he decided to get counseling. That was how I happened to see him.

We found that his trouble was not a matter of climate. It was a personal relationship. It came out in counseling that at the university where he taught there was another professor, in a superior position and very domineering, toward whom he had developed strong feelings of hostility.

He had been afraid to express his dislike or let it show in any way. As a result his physical system had reacted at a weak point, a physical predisposition to asthma. When it was discerned that this was the case, he willingly undertook the real cure. A spiritual treatment was applied to his attitude toward his domineering colleague.

He prayed for hostile feelings to be lifted from him and was able, in time, to actually pray for the well-being of the other man. He prayed out his fear and hate. It wasn't long until he got over his asthma, this time for good.

A YOUNG couple came to me about a problem of tension and unhappiness. We discussed and discarded various possible explanations of their difficulty. I suggested, "Either one or both of you may have some tieup in your mind or feelings. Tell me, whom do you hate?"

I sure hit the bull's eye that time, for the wife admitted there was someone she really hated, and that someone was her mother-in-law. I urged this young wife to look upon her mother-in-law, not as a mother-in-law, but simply as a human being with problems of her own. I pointed out that it always helps in normalizing our attitudes toward others to think of them as people with people's problems, hopes, sorrows.

When she did this she was not only better able to understand the older woman but her feelings toward her began to moderate as well. It wasn't long before she was cleansed of the hatred.

Then she and her husband became much happier about the personality problem that had been troubling the two of them and until things worked out this way, there had been no ostensible connection between that problem and the husband's mother.

There is no rule of mental hygiene more important than to keep the mind free of hostility and ill will. So it pays to check your feelings on this score if you want your life to keep going well.

Ruth Chatterton Dies; Gained Fame As Actress

NORWALK, Conn. (AP)—Ruth Chatterton, who took a dare at the age of 14 and went on to gain renown on the stage, screen and as a novelist, died in a hospital Friday. She was 67.

Miss Chatterton was hospitalized Tuesday after being stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage as she entertained friends in the large old farmhouse at nearby Redding, Conn., that had been her home for several years.

She had lived alone since the death last year of her third husband, Barry Thompson.

Miss Chatterton made her stage debut in Washington shortly after she attended a matinee with a group of schoolmates.

When she criticized the star's performance, one of her friends challenged her to do a better job. A few days later, Miss Chatterton appeared in the show's chorus.

She was born in New York on Dec. 24, 1893, the daughter of William and Lillian Chatterton.

Miss Chatterton made her New York stage debut in 1911 when she appeared as Isolde Brand in "The Great Name." Some of her later performances were in "The Rainbow," "Daddy Long-Legs," "Come Out of the Kitchen," "A Marriage of Convenience," "Moonlight and Honeysuckle," and "Second Best Bed."

Her last Broadway appearance was in "Idiot's Delight," in 1951.

She began her film career in 1928 in "Sins of the Father" and later appeared in such movies as "The Doctor's Secret," "Madame X," "The Laughing Lady," "Sarah and Son," and "Dodsworth."

cultural production in the Siberian region.

Khrushchev declared in a speech at lunch there that he was concerned about right-wing developments in Finland that appeared to lead in the direction of a greater separation of that country from the close friendship it has had with the Soviet Union in recent years.

The Soviet premier did not outline the history of the case, but the friendship developed after Finland lost two wars during the 1940s and apparently came to a national decision that further conflict with the Soviet Union was out of the question.

A first reflection of the decision came in an announcement carried by Tass from Helsinki today that O. Honka, right-wing candidate for the Finnish presidency, had decided he would not run in the February election.

A communique has been prepared in which Premier Khrushchev restates the views outlined in the note of Oct. 30.

Military negotiations were requested in the note. It was these which Khrushchev agreed to postpone, apparently with assurance of the Finnish president that there would be no policy change in Finland.

The warning from the Soviet side contained in the communique was directed quite as much at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and its two Scandinavian members, Denmark and Norway, as it was at Finland.

in a men's restroom in the northeast corner of the building. Removing a screen and opening the window, they dropped to the floor inside.

The burglars forced open a padlock to gain access to the premium display case. The egg carton containing the loot left behind was found in an aisle leading to a large door in the meat receiving room on the north side of the building.

The intruders rolled a display rack loaded with cigarettes to the rear stockroom, where they unloaded it. They apparently made their exit via a door in the meat receiving room.

The burglary was discovered when the market opened for business yesterday morning.

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — J. F. Paschal, Clermont County auditor, had decided to start foreclosure action to cut down the county's delinquent real estate backlog of $400,250. He said more than half the 4,963 parcels of land involved have been delinquent more than a year, and under a new law he can start action to sell the land to pay the tax.

'We Liked Her And She Liked Us,' Summarizes Visit By Guatemalan

The following article was prepared by the local Business and Professional Women's Club.

"She won my heart completely." This comment by an East Liverpool High School seems to best summarize the impression made by Miss Marta Julia Alarcon of Guatemala on all who met her during her visit in the past week.

A guest of the East Liverpool Business and Professional Women's Club from Nov. 17-22, Miss Alarcon visited schools, business and industrial establishments and many homes. Everywhere, those who met and talked with her, found her "gracious", "friendly", "appreciative", "charming", "well-informed", "intelligent", or "interested in our country and people".

And what was her impression of us? Here are some of her comments: "This is my first visit to the United States and I am much impressed. The people of East Liverpool have given me much pleasure and satisfaction. In spite of the fact that I do not speak English, they have given me support such as I have never known before. Everyone is very kind and friendly. In my country, many people have many erroneous ideas about Americans . . . that all are capitalists and have much money. Now I have seen and learned many things about your country and people and can return and tell others about these things."

And to her hostesses, the members of the BPW Club, she said: "Your friendly welcome has brought me much happiness. I will probably never be back here again, but I will remember you always in my heart".

MISS ALARCON visited at both Westgate and Central school buildings, selected by BPW committees as being most representative of the "old" and the "new", and, as a club spokesman points out, "We wanted her to see, at Westgate, the results of our willingness to be taxed to provide proper educational opportunities, and, at Central building, that we still have much work ahead of us".

The visitor spent about three hours at Westgate, seeing all facilities there and visiting in various elementary classrooms. She called it "beautiful, luxurious" and "most complete in apparatus".

She evinced great interest in the school cafeteria when she lunched with the students and asked many questions about the program, acknowledging that nothing of this sort was yet available in Guatemala, although "milk is provided" in their schools.

Miss Alarcon spent about two hours at Central building, telling the students there that most school buildings in her land are "similar, few are better than this one" (Central). There, too, buildings are not large enough, and two half-day sessions are in effect (from 8 to 12:30 and from 1:00 to 5:30) to permit double use of facilities.

She commented several times on how "well-behaved" pupils were and on their "respectful attitudes" toward instructors and the "general atmosphere of the school rooms".

She thinks our pupils "a very intelligent group, far advanced" and expressed pleasure that "so many are taking advantage of the opportunity to learn Spanish (her native language). She regretted that "in Guatemala, foreign languages are taught only in higher classes, or in universities. But in America, you have many great opportunities to learn".

IN RESPONSE to questions from students of the high school Spanish classes, Miss Alarcon stated that young people in Guatamala "pay close attention to American movies" and "understand your customs from the movies". "They think you are far advanced in many things". She also pointed out that recreation for boys and girls of her country are much the same as here, including music, dancing, parties, games and sports.

On a previous occasion, Miss Alarcon had evinced interest in the formation of the "Future Business Women's Club" by the local BPW Club in the high school and expressed the hope that she can establish a similar group in the Luzvalle Girls School in Guatemala City, of which she is director.

Complete tours of several business establishments in this area were arranged for Miss Alarcon during her stay here.

A two-hour tour of the Taylor, Smith & Taylor pottery in Chester was of particular interest to the visitor, since she had "never before seen such a large industrial plant". She also visited a number of local retail business houses.

Miss Alarcon also had time to pay a brief visit at the Columbiana County Courthouse in Lisbon.

While in Lisbon, she also visited the offices of the Columbiana County Boy Scout Council, commenting to the staff there that "Guatemala has a large and active Boy Scout organization".

She also paid a brief visit to the county agricultural offices, then was taken on a tour of a nearby farm.

during her stay was another new experience, since Guatemala City enjoys an excellent climate with an average temperature of 72 degrees. She called the snow "pretty, but too cold".

In addition to the reception held last Sunday for Miss Alarcon by the BPW Club, members also took a chartered bus trip to Pittsburgh where they saw the Ringling, Barnum & Bailey Circus at the new Civic Arena. The visitor termed it a "wonderful new experience" and "a grand spectacle".

Her stay here concluded Wednesday afternoon with typical women's activities, such as shopping for "souvenirs" and a trip to a local beauty shop in preparation for her return to Washington, D.C. She now is attending the National BPW federation's "Conference for Business and Professional Women of the Americas" at San Juan, Puerto Rico, and will return to her home in Guatemala next Tuesday.

Youth Placed On Probation

A 20-year-old Glenmoor area youth was placed on probation Friday afternoon by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff after he was convicted of a charge he embezzled $18.95 on Nov. 6 at the Montgomery Ward & Co. store, where he formerly was employed as a clerk.

Judge Chertoff gave a suspended 60-day County Jail term to Floyd W. Van Wey Jr., who was named in an affidavit filed by D. C. Bonner of Prospect, Pa., a company official. Van Wey was ordered to pay the $7.50 costs.

The terms of probation include: Van Wey must make full restitution of the amounts taken from the store; he must find and keep steady employment and he must attend church regularly. The judge warned Van Wey he could have been fined a maximum of $300 and costs and sentenced to 90 days in jail.

Bonner testified Van Wey had admitted a series of thefts. He said the total loss probably is about $60. Van Wey had pleaded "no contest."

An employe of the store for two and a half years, Van Wey was arrested Thursday night at 11:20 at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd W. Van Wey of the Air Beacon Rd., where he has made his home since he and his wife were estranged.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Wey testified on their son's behalf before a plea in mitigation was entered by defense counsel, Atty. George A. Aronson. The couple testified their son never was involved in trouble with the law previously. They said he apparently took the money because he was hounded by creditors for bills run up when he and his wife lived together. Exercising his prerogative to grant probation in such a case, the judge commented he feels it is justified by Van Wey's past record.

Habit-Forming Sweets Wreck Reducing Plan

You'll never lose your sweet tooth by indulging in sweets. So many of you write that you have no will power at all when it comes to turning down fattening sweets.

Ida Jean Kain

You explain that your craving for them is insatiable. There is a physiological reason back of the craving.

If you eat meals that are moderate to low in carbohydrate (sugar and starch) your blood sugar is stabilized by hormonal control. Then if you start eating more sweets, you not only have the problem of coping with those calories, but the blood sugar is no longer stabilized by the hormones.

Supposing for example, you slight the main course of the meal in order to save the calories for a generous portion of a favorite dessert.

WHAT HAPPENS? Two to three hours later you feel a gnawing hunger ... your appetite is out of control. You experience what might be termed a "post dessert swing."

It is important to understand the body's reaction. Sweets furnish quickly absorbable sugar which rapidly forces the blood-sugar level high and in turn stimulates the secretion of insulin. Since sugar is burned quickly, the blood sugar level falls rapidly and you feel hungry again.

Nature's hunger signal can be met with any food, but if your taste is for sweets and that is what you eat, then the cycle is repeated.

You also report that when you leave out sweets the craving for them is quite overpowering. That reaction is because the mechanism which the body has set up to handle the accustomed carbohydrates remains in force for a bit. But once you are alert to the fact that sweets really do create an appetite for more sweets, it makes sense to put a stop to this rebound by eating less sweets.

The best way to control appetite is to eat three adequate meals a day, and include a protein food with each meal. Protein, together with some form of starch, such as a potato, starch vegetable or bread, is metabolized more quickly and you do not feel hungry again for some time.

THE MOST jubilant reducers are those who find, to their pleased astonishment, that they really have conquered the craving for sweets. They can take a small serving of dessert or leave it alone. They no longer feel compelled to eat sweets.

Dieters, if you can conquer your sweet tooth, you can reduce, control your weight and live happily slim ever after.

James Hagerty, Former Political Writer, Claimed

NEW YORK (AP)—James A. Hagerty, 85, a former political reporter for the New York Times and father of James C. Hagerty, press secretary to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, died Friday in St. Luke's Hospital.

He suffered a coronary attack several days ago.

Hagerty reported politics for the Times from 1920 to his retirement in 1954.

His colleagues called him "Big Jim" until his son entered the newspaper profession. Then he became known as "Old Jim."

A native of Plattsburgh, N. Y., Hagerty cut short his studies at Cornell University to take a job on his home town newspaper.

Hagerty, although a Republican, spent much of his professional life reporting the activities of Democrats. In 1954, Democrats paid tribute to Hagerty as he received a gold plaque for a "distinguished record of service in the field of journalism and his encouragement of youth in politics."

Payroll Padding Guilt Is Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals upheld the conviction of Claude A. Taylor Friday on charges of defrauding the government of $14,000 by padding payrolls.

Taylor, 35, is the son-in-law of the late Rep. James G. Polk, D-Ohio. He was employed in the House of Representatives from January 1955, to May 6, 1959, as head of its mailing room. He was accused of having 52 checks made out to fictitious names and pocketing the money.

Taylor was sentenced to one to three years in prison last May following conviction in U.S. District Court. The appeals court denied a contention by Taylor's attorney that the conviction should be set aside because photographic copies of alleged fraudulent vouchers, rather than the originals, were introduced in evidence in the trial.

The court's opinion, written by Judge John A. Danaher, said overwhelming evidence of the pattern followed by Taylor clearly established his guilt even if the vouchers had in effect been destroyed.

Police quoted witnesses that Hoffman entered a down town Wheeling office of the Hazel-Atlas Glass container plant, where Miss Krenzel is employed, and forced her to get into his car yesterday.

Last night, however, both denied that there was any force involved. Police said they explained they had gone to Pittsburgh shopping.

The kidnapping warrant was filed by the girl's father, Frank Krenzel.

'We Liked Her And She Liked Us,' Summarizes Visit By Guatemalan

The following article was prepared by the local Business and Professional Women's Club.

"She won my heart completely." This comment by an East Liverpool High School seems to best summarize the impression made by Miss Marta Julia Alarcon of Guatemala on all who met her during her visit in the past week.

A guest of the East Liverpool Business and Professional Women's Club from Nov. 17-22, Miss Alarcon visited schools, business and industrial establishments and many homes. Everywhere, those who met and talked with her, found her "gracious", "friendly", "appreciative", "charming", "well-informed", "intelligent", or "interested in our country and people".

And what was her impression of us? Here are some of her comments: "This is my first visit to the United States and I am much impressed. The people of East Liverpool have given me much pleasure and satisfaction. In spite of the fact that I do not speak English, they have given me support such as I have never known before. Everyone is very kind and friendly. In my country, many people have many erroneous ideas about Americans . . . that all are capitalists and have much money. Now I have seen and learned many things about your country and people and can return and tell others about these things."

And to her hostesses, the members of the BPW Club, she said: "Your friendly welcome has brought me much happiness. I will probably never be back here again, but I will remember you always in my heart".

MISS ALARCON visited at both Westgate and Central school buildings, selected by BPW committees as being most representative of the "old" and the "new", and, as a club spokesman points out, "We wanted her to see, at Westgate, the results of our willingness to be taxed to provide proper educational opportunities, and, at Central building, that we still have much work ahead of us".

The visitor spent about three hours at Westgate, seeing all facilities there and visiting in various elementary classrooms. She called it "beautiful, luxurious" and "most complete in apparatus".

She evinced great interest in the school cafeteria when she lunched with the students and asked many questions about the program, acknowledging that nothing of this sort was yet available in Guatemala, although "milk is provided" in their schools.

Miss Alarcon spent about two hours at Central building, telling the students there that most school buildings in her land are "similar, few are better than this one" (Central). There, too, buildings are not large enough, and two half-day sessions are in effect (from 8 to 12:30 and from 1:00 to 5:30) to permit double use of facilities.

She commented several times on how "well-behaved" pupils were and on their "respectful attitudes" toward instructors and the "general atmosphere of the school rooms".

She thinks our pupils "a very intelligent group, far advanced" and expressed pleasure that "so many are taking advantage of the opportunity to learn Spanish (her native language). She regretted that "in Guatemala, foreign languages are taught only in higher classes, or in universities. But in America, you have many great opportunities to learn".

IN RESPONSE to questions from students of the high school Spanish classes, Miss Alarcon stated that young people in Guatamala "pay close attention to American movies" and "understand your customs from the movies". "They think you are far advanced in many things". She also pointed out that recreation for boys and girls of her country are much the same as here, including music, dancing, parties, games and sports.

On a previous occasion, Miss Alarcon had evinced interest in the formation of the "Future Business Women's Club" by the local BPW Club in the high school and expressed the hope that she can establish a similar group in the Luzvalle Girls School in Guatemala City, of which she is director.

Complete tours of several business establishments in this area were arranged for Miss Alarcon during her stay here.

A two-hour tour of the Taylor, Smith & Taylor pottery in Chester was of particular interest to the visitor, since she had "never before seen such a large industrial plant". She also visited a number of local retail business houses.

Miss Alarcon also had time to pay a brief visit at the Columbiana County Courthouse in Lisbon.

While in Lisbon, she also visited the offices of the Columbiana County Boy Scout Council, commenting to the staff there that "Guatemala has a large and active Boy Scout organization".

She also paid a brief visit to the county agricultural offices, then was taken on a tour of a nearby farm.

during her stay was another new experience, since Guatemala City enjoys an excellent climate with an average temperature of 72 degrees. She called the snow "pretty, but too cold".

In addition to the reception held last Sunday for Miss Alarcon by the BPW Club, members also took a chartered bus trip to Pittsburgh where they saw the Ringling, Barnum & Bailey Circus at the new Civic Arena. The visitor termed it a "wonderful new experience" and "a grand spectacle".

Her stay here concluded Wednesday afternoon with typical women's activities, such as shopping for "souvenirs" and a trip to a local beauty shop in preparation for her return to Washington, D.C. She now is attending the National BPW federation's "Conference for Business and Professional Women of the Americas" at San Juan, Puerto Rico, and will return to her home in Guatemala next Tuesday.

James Hagerty, Former Political Writer, Claimed

NEW YORK (AP)—James A. Hagerty, 85, a former political reporter for the New York Times and father of James C. Hagerty, press secretary to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, died Friday in St. Luke's Hospital.

He suffered a coronary attack several days ago.

Hagerty reported politics for the Times from 1920 to his retirement in 1954.

His colleagues called him "Big Jim" until his son entered the newspaper profession. Then he became known as "Old Jim."

A native of Plattsburgh, N. Y., Hagerty cut short his studies at Cornell University to take a job on his home town newspaper.

Hagerty, although a Republican, spent much of his professional life reporting the activities of Democrats. In 1954, Democrats paid tribute to Hagerty as he received a gold plaque for a "distinguished record of service in the field of journalism and his encouragement of youth in politics."

Payroll Padding Guilt Is Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals upheld the conviction of Claude A. Taylor Friday on charges of defrauding the government of $14,000 by padding payrolls.

Taylor, 35, is the son-in-law of the late Rep. James G. Polk, D-Ohio. He was employed in the House of Representatives from January 1955, to May 6, 1959, as head of its mailing room. He was accused of having 52 checks made out to fictitious names and pocketing the money.

Taylor was sentenced to one to three years in prison last May following conviction in U.S. District Court. The appeals court denied a contention by Taylor's attorney that the conviction should be set aside because photographic copies of alleged fraudulent vouchers, rather than the originals, were introduced in evidence in the trial.

The court's opinion, written by Judge John A. Danaher, said overwhelming evidence of the pattern followed by Taylor clearly established his guilt even if the vouchers had in effect been destroyed.

Wheeling Youth Returns Girl, 18; Kidnap Denied

BRIDGEPORT, Ohio (AP) — A 21-year-old Wheeling, W. Va. youth was held here after he returned a girl he was accused of kidnapping Friday.

Police said James E. Hoffman and Miss Diana Krenzel, 18, of Bridgeport returned to her home last night. Both denied that there was any kidnapping involved and both knew nothing of a search in three states that was going on for them.

Hoffman was taken to the jail where he waived extradition and will be returned to Wheeling.

Police quoted witnesses that Hoffman entered a down town Wheeling office of the Hazel-Atlas Glass container plant, where Miss Krenzel is employed, and forced her to get into his car yesterday.

Last night, however, both denied that there was any force involved. Police said they explained they had gone to Pittsburgh shopping.

Air Force Laboratory Aides Visit Crucible

Two officials of the Air Force manufacturing technology laboratory have returned to the Wright-Patterson Air Base facility at Dayton after inspecting some of the Crucible Steel Co.'s units at Midland and to discuss existing contracts

W. E. Gregg, acting plant manager, explained operations to Col. Charles F. Begg, head of the laboratory's basic industry branch, and Hugh L. Black, project director.

The aides commented that advanced aerospace vehicles are limited more by materials than by design concepts and their visit in part was to discuss Crucible's contributions to improved materials for the Space Age.

Publisher, Author Of Cited Obscene Novel File Law Suit

CLEVELAND (AP) — The publisher and author of "Tropic of Cancer," a novel that has been termed obscene by some officials, are fighting back with a $4.8 million law suit filed here.

The suit, filed Friday in U.S. District Court, alleges that eight law officials in Cuyahoga and Summit counties unlawfully suppressed circulation of the novel. It asks that each of the eight defendants be required to pay $200,000 damages and $400,000 punitive damages to Grove Press, Inc., and author Henry Miller.

Among the defendants are John T. Corrigan, Cuyahoga County prosecutor, and John S. Ballard, Summit County prosecutor. Also named were Harry Whiddon, Akron police chief; John Schott, Akron city prosecutor, and these Cleveland police officials: Richard F. Matia, police prosecutor; Frank W. Story, police chief; Capt. Arthur V. Roth, head of the juvenile bureau, and Sgt. George Fierle.

The petition charges that Roth, acting in according with policies formulated by Story, directed Fierle and other policemen to order distributors, bookstores and drugstores to remove the book from distribution, sale or display in their stores. Story denies he ever banned any book from the stores or elsewhere.

McBride's Team Out To Defend Title

Hoaglin Is Lone Veteran On East Palestine Squad

EAST PALESTINE — Basketball requires five starting players. And that is just what Chick McBride has in the way of letterman as he begins his second season at the helm of the East Palestine Bulldogs.

East Palestine, known in the past for its fine football teams, became a basketball power last year by capturing the Tri-County League championship.

However, McBride did lose four starters from the 1960-61 squad and seven seniors in all.

Included in that group were Jim McCloskey, East Palestine's one-two scoring punch last season. Hartshorn is now attending Youngstown University on a basketball scholarship.

McBride sees inexperience as the main problem this season. The lone returning starter from last year is a good one in Fred Hoaglin a 6-foot-4 performer.

Others who saw action on the varsity last year and won letters are Neil Winterburn, 6-foot-1, Don Menaguale, 5-foot-9, John Knight, 6-foot-1, and Don Archibald, 6-foot-2½.

East Palestine will launch its season next Friday night at Canfield, then return home the next night for its first contest before the home crowd with Youngstown Rayen.

The Tri-County League season will open Dec. 15 when Minerva invades East Palestine.

The 1961-62 schedule follows:

Dec. 1	Canfield	away
Dec. 2	Rayen	home
Dec. 8	Boardman	home
Dec. 15	Minerva	home
Dec. 19	Salem	away

Minnesota Puts Perfect Loop Record On Line Against Badgers

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 1961 college football season plays its last full day today with most of the interest centered on the still-clouded bowl picture, despite the five major conference titles at stake.

But along with the conference titles—in the Ivy League, Big Ten, Big Eight, Southwest and Big Five conferences—almost automatically go the post-season bids. Only the Ivys play for the record, with Princeton and Harvard bidding to tie Columbia for a share of the crown.

Ohio State and Minnesota, ranked 2-3 in the current Associated Press poll, both vie for the Big Ten crown and what suddenly looks like a trip to the Rose Bowl. The Buckeyes, with a 7-0-1 record and 4-0 in Big Ten play, meet Michigan in a game that will be televised regionally—ABC. Minnesota, also hoping for a repeat of last year's national championship, meet Wisconsin. The Gophers are 7-1 and 5-0 in the conference.

Alabama, the No. 1 team, is idle until its game against Auburn next week.

Arkansas, ranked seventh, may make it into the Sugar Bowl if it beats Texas Tech. A victory also will give the Razorbacks a share of the Southwest Conference title with Texas, which ended its season on Thanksgiving Day by beating Texas A&M and grabbing the host spot in the Cotton Bowl.

Louisiana State plays Tulane and then will decide on an Orange Bowl bid. Colorado, aiming for a date in the Orange Bowl, can clinch the Big Eight title by beating Nebraska, and force Kansas or Missouri to go elsewhere now that the conference has relaxed its rules on post-season play. The latter two also meet, with the winner good for a spot in the Liberty, Bluebonnet or Gotham Bowls.

The Rose Bowl host will be chosen on the outcome of the UCLA-Southern California game, as will the Big Five title. UCLA must win to go to the New Year's Day affair.

In the Ivy League, Harvard has to beat Yale in The Game, and Princeton must get by Dartmouth to tie. Columbia, already finished its league schedule, plays unbeaten Rutgers, 8-0.

In the other games involving the nation's top teams, Mississippi, probably Texas' opponent in the Cotton Bowl, meets Mississippi State while Michigan State plays a meaningless Big Ten game against Illinois.

Miami (Fla) took a big step toward a bowl bid Friday night in a 10-6 victory over Northwestern with Liberty and Gotham Bowl scouts looking on.

Maryland must beat Virginia to get into the Gator Bowl against Georgia Tech. Scouts also will be parked in stadiums watching Auburn meet Florida, Penn State play Pitt and Rice take on TCU.

'Champion Until Beaten'

Massillon Coach Claims Championship For Tigers

MASSILLON — Coach Leo Strang of the Massillon Tigers, after studying the results of the United Press International and Associated Press football rating polls, has proclaimed his undefeated Tigers undisputed state champs.

Strang was quoted as giving the following reasons to back up Massillon's claims:

"We were undefeated and untied in 11 games against the best and most representative teams from all sections in Ohio, such as: Cleveland, Toledo, Cincinnati, Warren, Mansfield, Akron, Steubenville, Alliance, Canton and Columbus."

"We were voted the best by the UPI board of high school coaches and the AP ranked us the best for 10 games and we won the 11th," Strang pointed out.

"All comparative scores with other undefeated teams favor us and the teams we defeated have a much better won and loss percentage than that of any other major contender."

The Massillon coach continued: "We played nine of the 90 teams ranked in the final poll and our chief competitor for the title played only two of the top-ranked 90."

"A champion is a champion until he has been beaten," Strang declared.

Texas A&M Ousts Myers As Grid Coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex (AP)—The Texas A&M ahtletic council was seeking a new football coach today but you wouldn't know it from the tight censorship.

Jim Myers, coach of the Aggies for four years, was given his walking papers Friday when his contract was not renewed. The athletic council, headed by Dr. Chris Groneman, was told to make a recommendation for filling the post.

But the council and the administration wouldn't say if anybody had been contacted or if anybody was being considered.

Speculation included Jim Owens former assistant at Texas A&M under Paul Bryant and now coach of Washington; Dan Devine, coach of Missouri, and Jess Claiborne, another former Bryant staff member at A&M.

It was reported in Seattle that an official representative of A&M was in town to offer Owens the post. But Owens, who has a $20,000 job at Washington, said it was news to him.

Owens said it was embarrassing since he has a game with Washington State today. He also said he was not looking for another job.

Myers was getting $16,500 a year for being athletic director and head coach at A&M. He also got fringe benefits, including a home on the campus.

Myers was fired the day after the Aggies took a 25-0 beating from Texas in their last game of the season. In his four years at A&M he had a 12-24-4 record.

Potters Win Pair At Cage Preview

The Potters were the only squad to post two victories in the four-team meet while Wellsville won one game and tied another.

East Liverpool's first unit opened up with a 20-12 victory over Steubenville Central as Huck Steffen dropped in six points and Jack Deshler and Dean Cline five each.

In the second game, the Potters got off to a slow start, but then rolled into high gear to down Toronto, 18-12. Tom (The Bomb) Kraft hooped seven markers for Coach Jim Harris' charges.

Ed Nelson dropped in six points as Wellsville and Toronto battled to a 10-10 tie, but the Tigers of Jack McDevitt came back to down Steubenville Central, 17-4. Alvin Jackson was high man for the Tigers with eight markers.

In the jayvee games, the Potters made it a complete sweep for the night gaining an 8-3 victory over Steubenville Central and a 14-12 win at the expense of Toronto.

Wellsville split by topping Toronto, 14-11, then losing to Central, 4-2.

The preview consisted of each team playing two eight - minute quarters, and was sponsored by the Toronto Kiwanis Club with proceeds going to the underprivileged children's fund.

Steubenville Central Cage Coach Resigns

The resignation of Francis Sebring as head basketball coach at Steubenville Central Catholic High School, effective at the close of the 1961-62 school year, has been announced.

Sebring, beginning his fifth year as Central coach, is a graduate of Miami University at Oxford and was formerly head coach at Dillonvale High School. His 1960-61 Central team advanced to the finals of the Sectional Class AA tournament, establishing a record for tournament progress by a Crusader team.

Browns Host Giants Sunday In 'Now-Or-Never' Contest

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland Coach Paul Brown says the Browns "might have a chance if we are at our best" in their now-or-never National Football League game with the New York Giants in Cleveland Sunday.

"The record shows that the Giants have the strongest defense in the league," said Brown. "They also have an outstanding offense, which compounds our problem, thanks to Y. A. Tittle, Del Shofner and others who have been added to an already sturdy group.

"Everybody here has a realization of the kind of team we face."

Of Cleveland's rousing 45-24 victory a week ago over the Eastern Conference's defending champion Philadelphia Eagles, Brown grinned:

"The Giants probably softened the Eagles up for us."

New York had routed Philadelphia a week earlier 38-21. The turn of events the past two Sundays left the Giants (8-2) with a full-game lead over the Eagles and the Browns, tied for second with 7-3 records.

While the Eastern contenders are busy, the Green Bay Packers will be able to sit back and gloat over their 2½-game Western Conference advantage. The Packers (9-2) came within one game of nailing down the Western title by stopping the Lions 17-9 in the Thanksgiving Day mud at Detroit.

Only the Lions (6-4-1) and the San Francisco 49ers (5-4-1) have more than a mathematical chance of overhauling the Packers.

The 49ers can remain in the running at least another week if they can beat Minnesota's Vikings (2-8) in San Francisco Sunday.

Sunday's other games aren't expected to mean a thing as far as championship matters are concerned. The Los Angeles Rams (3-7) invade Chicago (5-5); the St. Louis Cardinals (4-6) face the Steelers in Pittsburgh (4-6) and the Baltimore Colts (5-5) travel to Washington (0-9-1).

Committees Named For Midland Club

Committees were appointed by Mike Hornick president when 120 attended a meeting of the Midland Sportsmen's Club Wednesday in Ohio Township.

John Onuska and Tony Monac were named as county league representatives. Other committees appointed were: Finance — William Anusich, Frank Monac and John Pierce; Farm — Tom Patton, Frank Petrosky, James Boylce and Frank Poff; Kitchen — Patton and Pierce; Rifle, Pistol and Traps — Francis Galioto, Nick Cracciolo, Andy Wasely, Richard Martell and Chuck Scarsella; Game — Onuska and Boyle; Archery — Joe Martell, Tony McLean and Carl Martell.

A talk on the progress of farm-game program including the stocking and trapping of rabbits and game birds was given by Brady McGregor.

Plans were made to trap rabbits around residential districts and turn them loose in a wooded area.

Plans were also discussed for a fox hunt after the close of the big game season.

Biles Appointed Head Grid Coach At Xavier

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ed Biles, a little guy who probably will have to stand on a chair to look some of his players in the eye, is the new head football coach at Xavier University.

The 30-year-old Biles was named Friday night to succeed Ed Doherty, who had announced even before the season ended that he was bowing out as football coach.

Biles stands five-feet, six-inches tall. He has been Xavier's freshman football coach for the last six years and only a year ago was under consideration for the job as head football coach at Wabash College at Crawfordsville, Ind.

WVU's King State's College Coach Of Year

MORGANTOWN (AP) — George King, who guided West Virginia University's basketball team to a 23-4 record last season was named the state's College Coach of the Year in voting by the West Virginia Sports Writers Association.

King, 34, polled 20 of the 50 first place votes. Mark Cardwell, West Virginia State basketball coach, received 11 votes. Others getting votes were WVU football coach Gene Corum and Bob Means and Steve Harrick, both of the WVU coaching staff; Rex Pyles of Alderson-Broaddus and Ted Underwood of Salem.

This was the first year that WVU coaches were eligible for the award.

Houston Eyes AFL Victory To Pad Lead

By The Associated Press

Houston hosts Denver Sunday hoping to put daylight between itself and Boston in the tight Eastern Division race of the American Football League.

The Oilers are one-half game ahead and a victory over Denver would give them a full game bulge as the teams drew even in number of games played.

Boston rests this week with a 6-4-1 record compared to Houston's 6-3-1.

New York pulled within a half-game of Boston Thursday when it beat out Buffalo 21-14. Buffalo fell 2½ games behind leading Houston and appears out of the race since it has only two games to go.

Oakland plays at Dallas Sunday in a so-what game. They have been in a hot contest to see which could lose the most games and Oakland is a step ahead at the moment. But a victory over Dallas would put the Raiders even with the Texans, each then boasting a 3-8 record.

Denver may take over the losing championship since it is 3-8 and a loss to Houston would give it a definite margin.

San Diego, unbeaten leader and champion of the Western Division, takes the week off.

Foss-Wismer AFL Feud Simmers To Slow Boil

NEW YORK (AP)—The verbal battle featuring American Football League Commissioner Joe Foss and Harry Wismer, president of the New York Titans, simmered to a slow boil today but gave indications it may bubble over again.

Foss said he planned to call a meeting of the eight league directors and demand the ouster of Wismer, which he said he was empowered to do under the league by-laws.

Wismer, in Washington, continued to voice his defiance of the commissioner, but his attitude softened a bit from earlier demands the league get a new commissioner.

"This is an intolerable situation," Foss said Friday. "I have talked to some of the directors—not all of them—and I can assure you I have support."

"Under our by-laws, approval of three-fourths of the directors can force a franchise change where a condition exists detrimental to the league. There is no doubt that such a condition is present in the case of Wismer," he said.

Foss, a former governor of South Dakota and Congressional Medal of Honor winner as a World War II Marine pilot, said he didn't know whether he would take up the Wismer matter at the Dec. 2 draft meeting or try to get the directors together earlier.

The feud, threatening to blow a big hole in the struggling, two-year-old league, was precipitated by disclosure of a secret telephone draft of college players, contrary to an agreement with the College Football Coaches Association that no players be contacted before the end of the season.

McBride's Team Out To Defend Title

Hoaglin Is Lone Veteran On East Palestine Squad

EAST PALESTINE — Basketball requires five starting players. And that is just what Chick McBride has in the way of letterman as he begins his second season at the helm of the East Palestine Bulldogs.

East Palestine, known in the past for its fine football teams, became a basketball power last year by capturing the Tri-County League championship.

However, McBride did lose four starters from the 1960-61 squad and seven seniors in all.

Included in that group were Jim McCloskey, East Palestine's one-two scoring punch last season. Hartshorn is now attending Youngstown University on a basketball scholarship.

McBride sees inexperience as the main problem this season. The lone returning starter from last year is a good one in Fred Hoaglin a 6-foot-4 performer.

Others who saw action on the varsity last year and won letters are Neil Winterburn, 6-foot-1, Don Menaguale, 5-foot-9, John Knight, 6-foot-1, and Don Archibald, 6-foot-2½.

East Palestine will launch its season next Friday night at Canfield, then return home the next night for its first contest before the home crowd with Youngstown Rayen.

The Tri-County League season will open Dec. 15 when Minerva invades East Palestine.

The 1961-62 schedule follows:

Dec. 1	Canfield	away
Dec. 2	Rayen	home
Dec. 8	Boardman	home
Dec. 15	Minerva	home
Dec. 19	Salem	away
Jan. 5	Leetonia	away
Jan. 6	Columbiana	home
Jan. 12	Poland	home
Jan. 13	Louisville	away
Jan. 19	Sebring	home
Jan. 10	Lisbon	away
Jan. 26	Minerva	away
Feb. 2	Leetonia	home
Feb. 3	Columbiana	away

Minnesota Puts Perfect Loop Record On Line Against Badgers

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 1961 college football season plays its last full day today with most of the interest centered on the still-clouded bowl picture, despite the five major conference titles at stake.

But along with the conference titles—in the Ivy League, Big Ten, Big Eight, Southwest and Big Five conferences—almost automatically go the post-season bids. Only the Ivys play for the record, with Princeton and Harvard bidding to tie Columbia for a share of the crown.

Ohio State and Minnesota, ranked 2-3 in the current Associated Press poll, both vie for the Big Ten crown and what suddenly looks like a trip to the Rose Bowl. The Buckeyes, with a 7-0-1 record and 4-0 in Big Ten play, meet Michigan in a game that will be televised regionally—ABC. Minnesota, also hoping for a repeat of last year's national championship, meet Wisconsin. The Gophers are 7-1 and 5-0 in the conference.

Alabama, the No. 1 team, is idle until its game against Auburn next week.

Arkansas, ranked seventh, may make it into the Sugar Bowl if it beats Texas Tech. A victory also will give the Razorbacks a share of the Southwest Conference title with Texas, which ended its season on Thanksgiving Day by beating Texas A&M and grabbing the host spot in the Cotton Bowl.

Louisiana State plays Tulane and then will decide on an Orange Bowl bid. Colorado, aiming for a date in the Orange Bowl, can clinch the Big Eight title by beating Nebraska, and force Kansas or Missouri to go elsewhere now that the conference has relaxed its rules on post-season play. The latter two also meet, with the winner good for a spot in the Liberty, Bluebonnet or Gotham Bowls.

The Rose Bowl host will be chosen on the outcome of the UCLA-Southern California game, as will the Big Five title. UCLA must win to go to the New Year's Day affair.

In the Ivy League, Harvard has to beat Yale in The Game, and Princeton must get by Dartmouth to tie. Columbia, already finished its league schedule, plays unbeaten Rutgers, 8-0.

In the other games involving the nation's top teams, Mississippi, probably Texas' opponent in the Cotton Bowl, meets Mississippi State while Michigan State plays a meaningless Big Ten game against Illinois.

Miami (Fla) took a big step toward a bowl bid Friday night in a 10-6 victory over Northwestern with Liberty and Gotham Bowl scouts looking on.

Maryland must beat Virginia to get into the Gator Bowl against Georgia Tech. Scouts also will be parked in stadiums watching Auburn meet Florida, Penn State play Pitt and Rice take on TCU.

Massillon Coach Claims Championship For Tigers

MASSILLON — Coach Leo Strang of the Massillon Tigers, after studying the results of the United Press International and Associated Press football rating polls, has proclaimed his undefeated Tigers undisputed state champs.

Strang was quoted as giving the following reasons to back up Massillon's claims:

"We were undefeated and untied in 11 games against the best and most representative teams from all sections in Ohio, such as: Cleveland, Toledo, Cincinnati, Warren, Mansfield, Akron, Steubenville, Alliance, Canton and Columbus."

"We were voted the best by the UPI board of high school coaches and the AP ranked us the best for 10 games and we won the 11th," Strang pointed out.

"All comparative scores with other undefeated teams favor us and the teams we defeated have a much better won and loss percentage than that of any other major contender."

The Massillon coach continued: "We played nine of the 90 teams ranked in the final poll and our chief competitor for the title played only two of the top-ranked 90."

"A champion is a champion until he has been beaten," Strang declared.

Texas A&M Ousts Myers As Grid Coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex (AP)—The Texas A&M ahtletic council was seeking a new football coach today but you wouldn't know it from the tight censorship.

Jim Myers, coach of the Aggies for four years, was given his walking papers Friday when his contract was not renewed. The athletic council, headed by Dr. Chris Groneman, was told to make a recommendation for filling the post.

But the council and the administration wouldn't say if anybody had been contacted or if anybody was being considered.

Speculation included Jim Owens former assistant at Texas A&M under Paul Bryant and now coach of Washington; Dan Devine, coach of Missouri, and Jess Claiborne, another former Bryant staff member at A&M.

It was reported in Seattle that an official representative of A&M was in town to offer Owens the post. But Owens, who has a $20,000 job at Washington, said it was news to him.

Owens said it was embarrassing since he has a game with Washington State today. He also said he was not looking for another job.

Myers was getting $16,500 a year for being athletic director and head coach at A&M. He also got fringe benefits, including a home on the campus.

Myers was fired the day after the Aggies took a 25-0 beating from Texas in their last game of the season. In his four years at A&M he had a 12-24-4 record.

Potters Win Pair At Cage Preview

The Potters were the only squad to post two victories in the four-team meet while Wellsville won one game and tied another.

East Liverpool's first unit opened up with a 20-12 victory over Steubenville Central as Huck Steffen dropped in six points and Jack Deshler and Dean Cline five each.

In the second game, the Potters got off to a slow start, but then rolled into high gear to down Toronto, 18-12. Tom (The Bomb) Kraft hooped seven markers for Coach Jim Harris' charges.

Ed Nelson dropped in six points as Wellsville and Toronto battled to a 10-10 tie, but the Tigers of Jack McDevitt came back to down Steubenville Central, 17-4. Alvin Jackson was high man for the Tigers with eight markers.

In the jayvee games, the Potters made it a complete sweep for the night gaining an 8-3 victory over Steubenville Central and a 14-12 win at the expense of Toronto.

Wellsville split by topping Toronto, 14-11, then losing to Central, 4-2.

The preview consisted of each team playing two eight - minute quarters, and was sponsored by the Toronto Kiwanis Club with proceeds going to the underprivileged children's fund.

Steubenville Central Cage Coach Resigns

The resignation of Francis Sebring as head basketball coach at Steubenville Central Catholic High School, effective at the close of the 1961-62 school year, has been announced.

Sebring, beginning his fifth year as Central coach, is a graduate of Miami University at Oxford and was formerly head coach at Dillonvale High School. His 1960-61 Central team advanced to the finals of the Sectional Class AA tournament, establishing a record for tournament progress by a Crusader team.

Browns Host Giants Sunday In 'Now-Or-Never' Contest

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland Coach Paul Brown says the Browns "might have a chance if we are at our best" in their now-or-never National Football League game with the New York Giants in Cleveland Sunday.

"The record shows that the Giants have the strongest defense in the league," said Brown. "They also have an outstanding offense, which compounds our problem, thanks to Y. A. Tittle, Del Shofner and others who have been added to an already sturdy group.

"Everybody here has a realization of the kind of team we face."

Of Cleveland's rousing 45-24 victory a week ago over the Eastern Conference's defending champion Philadelphia Eagles, Brown grinned:

"The Giants probably softened the Eagles up for us."

New York had routed Philadelphia a week earlier 38-21. The turn of events the past two Sundays left the Giants (8-2) with a full-game lead over the Eagles and the Browns, tied for second with 7-3 records.

While the Eastern contenders are busy, the Green Bay Packers will be able to sit back and gloat over their 2½-game Western Conference advantage. The Packers (9-2) came within one game of nailing down the Western title by stopping the Lions 17-9 in the Thanksgiving Day mud at Detroit.

Only the Lions (6-4-1) and the San Francisco 49ers (5-4-1) have more than a mathematical chance of overhauling the Packers.

The 49ers can remain in the running at least another week if they can beat Minnesota's Vikings (2-8) in San Francisco Sunday.

Sunday's other games aren't expected to mean a thing as far as championship matters are concerned. The Los Angeles Rams (3-7) invade Chicago (5-5); the St. Louis Cardinals (4-6) face the Steelers in Pittsburgh (4-6) and the Baltimore Colts (5-5) travel to Washington (0-9-1).

Committees Named For Midland Club

Committees were appointed by Mike Hornick president when 120 attended a meeting of the Midland Sportsmen's Club Wednesday in Ohio Township.

John Onuska and Tony Monac were named as county league representatives. Other committees appointed were: Finance — William Anusich, Frank Monac and John Pierce; Farm — Tom Patton, Frank Petrosky, James Boylce and Frank Poff; Kitchen — Patton and Pierce; Rifle, Pistol and Traps — Francis Galioto, Nick Cracciolo, Andy Wasely, Richard Martell and Chuck Scarsella; Game — Onuska and Boyle; Archery — Joe Martell, Tony McLean and Carl Martell.

A talk on the progress of farm-game program including the stocking and trapping of rabbits and game birds was given by Brady McGregor.

Plans were made to trap rabbits around residential districts and turn them loose in a wooded area.

Plans were also discussed for a fox hunt after the close of the big game season.

Biles Appointed Head Grid Coach At Xavier

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ed Biles, a little guy who probably will have to stand on a chair to look some of his players in the eye, is the new head football coach at Xavier University.

The 30-year-old Biles was named Friday night to succeed Ed Doherty, who had announced even before the season ended that he was bowing out as football coach.

Biles stands five-feet, six-inches tall. He has been Xavier's freshman football coach for the last six years and only a year ago was under consideration for the job as head football coach at Wabash College at Crawfordsville, Ind.

WVU's King State's College Coach Of Year

MORGANTOWN (AP) — George King, who guided West Virginia University's basketball team to a 23-4 record last season was named the state's College Coach of the Year in voting by the West Virginia Sports Writers Association.

King, 34, polled 20 of the 50 first place votes. Mark Cardwell, West Virginia State basketball coach, received 11 votes. Others getting votes were WVU football coach Gene Corum and Bob Means and Steve Harrick, both of the WVU coaching staff; Rex Pyles of Alderson-Broaddus and Ted Underwood of Salem.

This was the first year that WVU coaches were eligible for the award.

Houston Eyes AFL Victory To Pad Lead

By The Associated Press

Houston hosts Denver Sunday hoping to put daylight between itself and Boston in the tight Eastern Division race of the American Football League.

The Oilers are one-half game ahead and a victory over Denver would give them a full game bulge as the teams drew even in number of games played.

Boston rests this week with a 6-4-1 record compared to Houston's 6-3-1.

New York pulled within a half-game of Boston Thursday when it beat out Buffalo 21-14. Buffalo fell 2½ games behind leading Houston and appears out of the race since it has only two games to go.

Oakland plays at Dallas Sunday in a so-what game. They have been in a hot contest to see which could lose the most games and Oakland is a step ahead at the moment. But a victory over Dallas would put the Raiders even with the Texans, each then boasting a 3-8 record.

Denver may take over the losing championship since it is 3-8 and a loss to Houston would give it a definite margin.

San Diego, unbeaten leader and champion of the Western Division, takes the week off.

Auto Rams Rock Slide

A Wellsville area motorist escaped injury when his car rammed a rock slide on the Wellsville-East Liverpool super - road early this morning but two East Palestine drivers were hurt slightly in a collision Friday night just north of East Palestine.

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol said a car driven by David E. Byers, 20, of Wellsville R.D. 1 struck a large rock slide just outside the city limits at 2:30 a.m. today. Byers was headed toward Wellsville.

He was not hurt but considerable damage resulted to the car, officers said.

Charles W. Burley, 56, and Marshall Bevins Jr., 28, of East Palestine were injured slightly when their cars collided Friday at 11:15 p.m. on Route 170 just three-tenths a mile outside the East Palestine limits.

Officers said Burley, who was headed north, had started to make a turn into the driveway of his home when he collided with the Bevins vehicle.

The impact of the crash caused the Bevins car to swerve off the highway and strike the Burley residence, resulting in heavy damage to the front porch.

Burley suffered a laceration of the nose and sprained wrist while Bevins received cuts and bruises. Both were treated at Salem City Hospital.

In another mishap Friday at 6:30 p.m., a car driven by Anita Bluestone, 49, of Shaker Heights, struck a mail box owned by Frank Alford of Lisbon R.D. 3 on Route 30 about five miles south of Lisbon. The woman told officers she was sideswiped by another car, causing her to lose control.

Highway Patrol Chief Cites Man Shortage

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol says his outfit is short on men and he puts part of the blame on what he calls inadequate salaries.

The patrol needs an additional 300 men to do the job it should, Col. Scott B. Radcliffe told a Dayton television audience Friday night (over WHIO-TV). He said the patrol has only 750 men compared with a state police force of 1,200 in Illinois and 1,100 in Michigan.

Radcliffe said patrol officers are paid "woefully low in comparison to other police agencies in Ohio." He added that many highly trained officers quit the patrol because of this.

Jobless Claims Show Elevator Tendency

Unemployment apparently is riding an elevator in the East Liverpool area judging from the ups and downs it takes.

The Ohio State Employment Service office said today claims filed this week for jobless benefits climbed to 540, an increase of 14 over the week ending Nov. 18.

Harry L. Dinsmore, manager, said the claims included 422 on the regular state program and 118 filed under the federal extended act. The regular claims included 71 new and 351 continuing while 14 initial claims and 104 continuing were processed under the federal program.

Akron Man Plunges 100 Feet To Death

CLEVELAND (AP) — A man about 65 leaped off the Detroit-Superior high level bridge, plunging 100 feet to his death Friday night, police reported.

A checkbook in the name of Frank Fedor, of Akron was found on the body.

Police said the man was seen by John Hollis, 25, who was walking home across the bridge about 11 p.m. Hollis said he saw the man several feet away on the south side of the bridge, outside the guard rail.

He said he urged the man not to jump, but the man told him he was "hungry, was from Akron and was going to jump," police reported. Hollis saw a cab passing, and as he turned to hail the driver the man disappeared.

Crash Survivor Tells Of Fire On Plane

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—The Air Force cargo plane that exploded in flight, carrying possibly seven Texans to their deaths, was notified shortly after take off that a wheel was afire, a survivor says.

S.Sgt. Leroy Cotton, 37, Galena Park, Tex., who gave the account was one of three known survivors. The C119 taking reservists home from Alaska maneuvers crashed Thursday near Whitehorse in Yukon Territory.

The Air Force listed two men as dead and five others as dead or missing.

M.Sgt. Clyde L. Nicholas, 46, Pasadena, Tex., said he was the last of four to parachute.

23 Girls Escape Training School, But 6 Surrender

TAFT, Okla. (AP) — Twenty-three incorrigible inmates, wielding kitchen knives and ice picks, escaped from the state training school for Negro girls Friday night.

Mrs. Ruby Stanback, the superintendent, said six of the teenaged girls surrendered shortly afterward because of the cold. They were unarmed.

W. J. Edge, a highway patrolman, said the escapees that were considered most dangerous remained at large.

Mrs. Stanback said the escapees used broom handles to break lights in their second-floor quarters. When two supervisors tried to stop them, the inmates brushed aside the matrons, screaming "let's go."

They made for the kitchen and grabbed knives, forks and ice picks. They fled the home through the kitchen windows, which have no bars.

The superintendent said the girls apparently had planned the escape. A key to the electrical box had been missing since Thursday. They turned off lights at the institution before leaving.

There were 53 girls in the correctional institution, ranging in age from 11 to 17. Mrs. Stanback said those who fled were incorrigibles who had made trouble at the institution before.

3 Motorists Fined And 5 Forfeit Bonds

LISBON—Three motorists were fined Friday by County Judge James L. MacDonald and five forfeited appearance bonds.

Fined were William K. Russell, 83, of Salineville R. D., $10 and costs for failure to yield half the highway to oncoming traffic; Eunice F. Simpson, 43, of East Rochester, $20 and costs for operating a motor vehicle without a license, and John Barnardini, 29, of East Rochester, $5 and costs for driving without a muffler.

George Shaffer, 29, Gilbert Sissler Jr., 27, and William F. Hedrick, 25, all of Cleveland; Raymond A. White, 30, of Chagrin Falls and Edward M. Yaniga, 23, of Smithfield, Pa., forfeited $15 each for speeding. All were cited by the State Highway Patrol.

Boy Struck By Car Shows Improvement

Definite improvement has been shown in recent days in the condition of Billy Cain, 4-year-old Wellsville boy injured critically Aug. 13 when struck by an auto, the family reported today.

His condition at City Hospital now is listed as "fair." For weeks, it had been termed "critical." The boy is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Cain, 1003 Main St.

The child has regained consciousness and has spoken about a dozen words, although he can neither see nor hear yet, his mother said. He is able to take food from a spoon and drink through a straw, although he cannot feed himself. The child suffered a skull fracture and both thighs and his right arm also were broken.

Union Membership Reported Off Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Union membership fell off slightly in 1960, the Labor Department says.

A report issued Friday also found that a small but steady decline in the percentage of the labor force belonging to unions continued.

There were 17,049,000 Americans in unions in 1960, a decrease of 68,000 from 1959 but an increase of 36,000 since 1958, said the department.

The union membership represents 23.3 per cent of the total labor force of 73,126,000 in 1960. In 1959 it was 23.8 per cent and in 1958 it was 23.9 per cent.

In 1953 the 16,948,000 union members represented 25.2 per cent of the total labor force.

Union Vote Scheduled In Dayton Bus Strike

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Dayton's city buses could be running again by Sunday if striking union bus drivers and mechanics vote today to approve a new contract offer by City Transit Co.

That statement came Friday night from James McGinnity, a vice president of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes. The union's Local 1385 went on strike Nov. 15, halting the city's mass transportation system.

Announcement of the company's latest offer followed a 4½ - hour bargaining session Friday.

2 IN MEMORIAM

HARRY W. STACEY — In loving memory of him who passed away four years ago today, Nov. 25, 1957.
God saw the road was getting rough. The hills were hard to climb. He gently closed your weary eyes, and whispered peace be thine. Now four lonely years has passed, Since our great sorrow fell. The shock that I received that day I still remember well: Your end was sudden, Harry, dear, It makes me often cry. The saddest part of all You never said goodbye.
Sadly missed by MOM, DAD, WIFE, DAUGHTER, SISTER and BROTHERS.

Auto Rams Rock Slide

A Wellsville area motorist escaped injury when his car rammed a rock slide on the Wellsville-East Liverpool super - road early this morning but two East Palestine drivers were hurt slightly in a collision Friday night just north of East Palestine.

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol said a car driven by David E. Byers, 20, of Wellsville R.D. 1 struck a large rock slide just outside the city limits at 2:30 a.m. today. Byers was headed toward Wellsville.

He was not hurt but considerable damage resulted to the car, officers said.

Charles W. Burley, 56, and Marshall Bevins Jr., 28, of East Palestine were injured slightly when their cars collided Friday at 11:15 p.m. on Route 170 just three-tenths a mile outside the East Palestine limits.

Officers said Burley, who was headed north, had started to make a turn into the driveway of his home when he collided with the Bevins vehicle.

The impact of the crash caused the Bevins car to swerve off the highway and strike the Burley residence, resulting in heavy damage to the front porch.

Burley suffered a laceration of the nose and sprained wrist while Bevins received cuts and bruises. Both were treated at Salem City Hospital.

In another mishap Friday at 6:30 p.m., a car driven by Anita Bluestone, 49, of Shaker Heights, struck a mail box owned by Frank Alford of Lisbon R.D. 3 on Route 30 about five miles south of Lisbon. The woman told officers she was sideswiped by another car, causing her to lose control.

Highway Patrol Chief Cites Man Shortage

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol says his outfit is short on men and he puts part of the blame on what he calls inadequate salaries.

The patrol needs an additional 300 men to do the job it should, Col. Scott B. Radcliffe told a Dayton television audience Friday night (over WHIO-TV). He said the patrol has only 750 men compared with a state police force of 1,200 in Illinois and 1,100 in Michigan.

Radcliffe said patrol officers are paid "woefully low in comparison to other police agencies in Ohio." He added that many highly trained officers quit the patrol because of this.

Jobless Claims Show Elevator Tendency

Unemployment apparently is riding an elevator in the East Liverpool area judging from the ups and downs it takes.

The Ohio State Employment Service office said today claims filed this week for jobless benefits climbed to 540, an increase of 14 over the week ending Nov. 18.

Harry L. Dinsmore, manager, said the claims included 422 on the regular state program and 118 filed under the federal extended act. The regular claims included 71 new and 351 continuing while 14 initial claims and 104 continuing were processed under the federal program.

Akron Man Plunges 100 Feet To Death

CLEVELAND (AP) — A man about 65 leaped off the Detroit-Superior high level bridge, plunging 100 feet to his death Friday night, police reported.

A checkbook in the name of Frank Fedor, of Akron was found on the body.

Police said the man was seen by John Hollis, 25, who was walking home across the bridge about 11 p.m. Hollis said he saw the man several feet away on the south side of the bridge, outside the guard rail.

He said he urged the man not to jump, but the man told him he was "hungry, was from Akron and was going to jump," police reported. Hollis saw a cab passing, and as he turned to hail the driver the man disappeared.

Crash Survivor Tells Of Fire On Plane

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—The Air Force cargo plane that exploded in flight, carrying possibly seven Texans to their deaths, was notified shortly after take off that a wheel was afire, a survivor says.

S.Sgt. Leroy Cotton, 37, Galena Park, Tex., who gave the account was one of three known survivors. The C119 taking reservists home from Alaska maneuvers crashed Thursday near Whitehorse in Yukon Territory.

The Air Force listed two men as dead and five others as dead or missing.

M.Sgt. Clyde L. Nicholas, 46, Pasadena, Tex., said he was the last of four to parachute.

23 Girls Escape Training School, But 6 Surrender

TAFT, Okla. (AP) — Twenty-three incorrigible inmates, wielding kitchen knives and ice picks, escaped from the state training school for Negro girls Friday night.

Mrs. Ruby Stanback, the superintendent, said six of the teenaged girls surrendered shortly afterward because of the cold. They were unarmed.

W. J. Edge, a highway patrolman, said the escapees that were considered most dangerous remained at large.

Mrs. Stanback said the escapees used broom handles to break lights in their second-floor quarters. When two supervisors tried to stop them, the inmates brushed aside the matrons, screaming "let's go."

They made for the kitchen and grabbed knives, forks and ice picks. They fled the home through the kitchen windows, which have no bars.

The superintendent said the girls apparently had planned the escape. A key to the electrical box had been missing since Thursday. They turned off lights at the institution before leaving.

There were 53 girls in the correctional institution, ranging in age from 11 to 17. Mrs. Stanback said those who fled were incorrigibles who had made trouble at the institution before.

3 Motorists Fined And 5 Forfeit Bonds

LISBON—Three motorists were fined Friday by County Judge James L. MacDonald and five forfeited appearance bonds.

Fined were William K. Russell, 83, of Salineville R. D., $10 and costs for failure to yield half the highway to oncoming traffic; Eunice F. Simpson, 43, of East Rochester, $20 and costs for operating a motor vehicle without a license, and John Barnardini, 29, of East Rochester, $5 and costs for driving without a muffler.

George Shaffer, 29, Gilbert Sissler Jr., 27, and William F. Hedrick, 25, all of Cleveland; Raymond A. White, 30, of Chagrin Falls and Edward M. Yaniga, 23, of Smithfield, Pa., forfeited $15 each for speeding. All were cited by the State Highway Patrol.

Boy Struck By Car Shows Improvement

Definite improvement has been shown in recent days in the condition of Billy Cain, 4-year-old Wellsville boy injured critically Aug. 13 when struck by an auto, the family reported today.

His condition at City Hospital now is listed as "fair." For weeks, it had been termed "critical." The boy is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Cain, 1003 Main St.

The child has regained consciousness and has spoken about a dozen words, although he can neither see nor hear yet, his mother said. He is able to take food from a spoon and drink through a straw, although he cannot feed himself. The child suffered a skull fracture and both thighs and his right arm also were broken.

Union Membership Reported Off Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Union membership fell off slightly in 1960, the Labor Department says.

A report issued Friday also found that a small but steady decline in the percentage of the labor force belonging to unions continued.

There were 17,049,000 Americans in unions in 1960, a decrease of 68,000 from 1959 but an increase of 36,000 since 1958, said the department.

The union membership represents 23.3 per cent of the total labor force of 73,126,000 in 1960. In 1959 it was 23.8 per cent and in 1958 it was 23.9 per cent.

In 1953 the 16,948,000 union members represented 25.2 per cent of the total labor force.

Union Vote Scheduled In Dayton Bus Strike

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Dayton's city buses could be running again by Sunday if striking union bus drivers and mechanics vote today to approve a new contract offer by City Transit Co.

That statement came Friday night from James McGinnity, a vice president of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes. The union's Local 1385 went on strike Nov. 15, halting the city's mass transportation system.

Announcement of the company's latest offer followed a 4½ - hour bargaining session Friday.

How Can I?

Q. How can I clean white furs?

A. You can accomplish this very nicely with cornstarch or a 50-50 mixture of flour and salt, rubbed in and then shaken out again. However, in view of the fact that the man in your life probably isn't fond of white streaks on his dark coat, be sure to shake every trace of the powder out!

Q. How can I improvise some cream of tartar when one of my cake recipes calls for it and I don't have any of the real thing on hand?

A. A good substitute for cream of tartar is buttermilk. If the buttermilk is not sour enough, add a little vinegar.

Q. How can I renovate a limp and lifeless - looking veil?

A. You can add renewed vigor and life to this veil by placing it between two pieces of waxed paper and running a moderately warm iron over it. Or, dip it into some beer, shake it vigorously, and then lay out on a towel to dry.

Q. Any suggestions for improving the appearance of leather shoes?

A. Try rubbing the leather with the inside of a freshly - cut orange peel, then polish with a soft cloth, and see how this treatment improves the appearance.

Q. What can I do about the circle or ring that is often left when grease has been removed from material with dry-cleaning fluid?

A. This circle or ring will vanish if the cloth is held over the spout of a steaming teakettle.

Q. How can I remove some oil or grease stains from brown or tan shoes?

A. These will usually yield to lemon juice.

Yule To Mean Crime Boost, Chief Warns

The beginning of the Christmas rush means that both merchants and shoppers must be alert for the annual increase in thievery, burglary, confidence games, counterfeit money and phony checks, Police Chief Americo Radeschi warned today.

Pointing to a recent increase in petty thievery in stores, the chief said it can be traced to the greater activity of shop - lifters, who welcome the cover provided them by holiday shopping crowds.

Merchants should alert their employes to be on guard against shoplifters, who work best in busy seasons, the chief said. Small, comparatively valuable items such as cameras and radios should be kept on display in places where they cannot be picked up quickly and concealed by a thief, Chief Radeschi added.

Counterfeit passers and check artists also take advantage of the holiday rush to ply their trades, the chief warned. Store personnel should scrutinize big bills carefully and cash checks only for persons known to them personally, he said.

He also warned merchants to help safeguard their property by making certain that all doors and windows are locked securely when the store closes for the night. Both interiors and entrances should be well-lighted at night, particularly doorways and windows that give access from an alley or an areaway between two buildings, the chief said.

The holiday season sometimes sees the revival of the time-tried confidence game known as the "pigeon drop," Radeschi pointed out. In this swindle, a con man pretends he has found a large sum of money and offers to split it with the victim if he will put up some money of his own "to show good faith."

People still fall for the hoary swindle and it generally turns out their bank balances were checked out in advance by the con man, who knows just about how much he can milk out of the victim.

After obtaining the victim's money, the con man leaves him holding the supposed cash, which turns out to be wrapped paper cut to the size of currency.

In tips to shoppers, the chief warned women not to leave their purses lying on store counters while they examine merchandise. An unwatched purse is an invitation to a sneak thief, he explained.

Shoppers who place bundles in unattended parked cars should make certain the auto is locked securely, the chief said. The car should be parked in a well-lighted area, if possible, to discourage attempts to force entry by breaking a window, then manipulating the lock, the chief added.

Felony Charges Dropped Against Wife In Stabbing

A Wellsville woman accused of stabbing her husband with an icepick outside the Veterans Social Club on Pennsylvania Ave. early the morning of Nov. 18 was given a suspended 60-day term in County Jail Friday after she was convicted of a reduced charge of assault and battery.

After a lengthy hearing, Judge Samuel M. Chertoff pointed out there was not sufficient evidence to hold Mrs. Hannah Foster, 211 2nd St., on a felony charge of assualt with a deadly weapon on her husband, Ezell Foster, 36.

Mrs. Foster had been accused of stabbing her husband with an icepick during an argument outside the club. The husband had testified he was unaware at first that he had been stabbed and said he saw no blood.

Testimony showed that the icepick allegedly used as a weapon passed through four sets of hands before police recovered it from Sam Johnson, steward of the club.

Mrs. Foster, mother of six, was found guilty on the misdemeanor assault count. The terms of probation included a warning from the judge for both to remain away from the East End club.

Ex-Playwright Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Will S. Berney, a former New York playwright who moved to California two years ago to write television scripts, died Friday. Berney, 40, was coauthor of "Dark of the Moon," a dramatic legend in verse with music that ran for 320 performances after opening in New York in 1945.

Eyes Army Release

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—Mayor-elect Richard D. Maier, on active duty as a captain in the U. S. Army Reserve at Ft. Campbell, Ky., was sworn in Friday and said he expected to have his release from the Army by the time he takes office Jan. 1. He named Warren T. Curtis, 45-year-old tavern operator and World War II veteran, as safety-service director.

The Republic of Israel was created May 14, 1948.

'It Was Miracle,' Pastor Says

Girl, 4, Regains Sight After 3-Month Blindness

SHERWOOD, Tenn. (AP) — "It was a miracle," said The Rev. Joseph Huske. "I know it."

That was his explanation of how 4-year-old Margaret Jackson suddenly found vision after three months of blindness in this Cumberland Valley town about 75 miles southeast of Nashville.

Doctors who handled the case were unavailable for comment. But Margaret could see again and laugh with the other children, her brown eyes sparkling, her pug nose full of tiny wrinkles.

The story came to light recently when a Nashville Tennessean staff writer, Rudy Abramson, learned of Margaret's recovery. He came to Sherwood to interview Margaret and Father Huske.

The little girl became ill and went blind two years ago. She was taken to Vanderbilt Hospital in Nashville and examined for weeks. Several doctors thought the blindness was caused by lead poisoning. Few gave her parents, Johnny and Charlotte Jackson, any hope she would ever see again.

In time she returned to Sherwood and to the Epiphany Episcopal Mission where her father, a self-taught electrician, carpenter and mason, worked with Father Huske.

"Almost every time I went into the church, Johnny or Charlotte would be there," Father Huske said. "Sometimes both of them would be there with Margaret saying their prayers."

The Jacksons were still praying the following October when the leaves on the mountains around Sherwood started turning. Then one night Margaret became ill again, showing the same symptoms she had just before she lost her sight.

The girl was rushed to Vanderbilt Hospital a second time. But she was feeling better when she arrived and the doctors could find nothing wrong.

Back home once more, Johnny started to light a cigarette and Margaret grabbed for the match. The cigarette was forgotten. Johnny threw his arms around his small daughter and then began striking more matches.

"Every time, she would reach for them," he said. "After that, her sight gradually came back. Her left eye is a little weak now, but she doesn't even need glasses."

The three Jacksons have left Sherwood. Johnny was called into the Army and his wife and daughter recently went to join him at Ft. Polk, La.

But Margaret's "miracle" will never be forgotten by people in these parts.

Gift Tags Made By Multiple Sclerosis Patients Go On Sale

Christmas gift tags made by multiple sclerosis patients and civic organizations have been placed on sale at the First National Bank and the Potters Savings & Loan Co., Miss Marie Wolfe of the East Liverpool MS unit announced today.

The tags have been made from Christmas cards donated by county residents interested in aiding the MS cause, Miss Wolfe said.

Mrs. Darrell Fadely, county chairman, said the tags also are available at stores and financial institutions in East Palestine, Lisbon, Salem, Leetonia and Columbiana.

Proceeds will be used for patient aid and service, Miss Wolfe said. Instructors are available to teach the craft and a demonstration on making the tags will be given during the county MS workshop in February, she added.

Those desiring to aid the project next year may give their cards after the holidays to Miss Wolfe or Mrs. Jeanette Carpenter, public health nurse.

Frank Hancock will serve on the city MS service committee during the coming year. Educational programs and speakers will be available to all organizations as well as a film made at the University of Pennsylvania and narrated by Joan Crawford.

Mrs. Charles Chesney, R. N., aided by Mrs. Carpenter, has been surveying patients in the area and registering new patients. The work will extend into January.

The city is a unit of the Columbiana County chapter whose affiliation with the Tru-Mah-Col Chapter in Youngstown enables all registered county patients to obtain necessary equipment and an annual physical examination free of charge on request of the patient's physician.

Dr. R. C. Costello of East Liverpool has served on the medical advisory board of the Tru-Mah-Col Chapter since it was chartered by the national society.

The board has approved a rehabilitation program also available to county patients, Miss Wolfe said.

Navy Jet Pilot Sets World Mark Of 1,650 M.P.H.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy, claiming a world's jet speed record of 1,650 miles an hour for its F4H Phantom II fighter, decorates its pilot today with the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Marine Lt. Col. Robert B. Robinson, 38, of Downey, Calif., piloted the Phantom in the record hop Wednesday from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Robinson's Phantom blasted Friday to a top speed of 1,650 miles per hour—2½ times the speed of sound.

Yule To Mean Crime Boost, Chief Warns

The beginning of the Christmas rush means that both merchants and shoppers must be alert for the annual increase in thievery, burglary, confidence games, counterfeit money and phony checks, Police Chief Americo Radeschi warned today.

Pointing to a recent increase in petty thievery in stores, the chief said it can be traced to the greater activity of shop - lifters, who welcome the cover provided them by holiday shopping crowds.

Merchants should alert their employes to be on guard against shoplifters, who work best in busy seasons, the chief said. Small, comparatively valuable items such as cameras and radios should be kept on display in places where they cannot be picked up quickly and concealed by a thief, Chief Radeschi added.

Counterfeit passers and check artists also take advantage of the holiday rush to ply their trades, the chief warned. Store personnel should scrutinize big bills carefully and cash checks only for persons known to them personally, he said.

He also warned merchants to help safeguard their property by making certain that all doors and windows are locked securely when the store closes for the night. Both interiors and entrances should be well-lighted at night, particularly doorways and windows that give access from an alley or an areaway between two buildings, the chief said.

The holiday season sometimes sees the revival of the time-tried confidence game known as the "pigeon drop," Radeschi pointed out. In this swindle, a con man pretends he has found a large sum of money and offers to split it with the victim if he will put up some money of his own "to show good faith."

People still fall for the hoary swindle and it generally turns out their bank balances were checked out in advance by the con man, who knows just about how much he can milk out of the victim.

After obtaining the victim's money, the con man leaves him holding the supposed cash, which turns out to be wrapped paper cut to the size of currency.

In tips to shoppers, the chief warned women not to leave their purses lying on store counters while they examine merchandise. An unwatched purse is an invitation to a sneak thief, he explained.

Shoppers who place bundles in unattended parked cars should make certain the auto is locked securely, the chief said. The car should be parked in a well-lighted area, if possible, to discourage attempts to force entry by breaking a window, then manipulating the lock, the chief added.

Gunmen Get $3,000

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Three gunmen wearing rubber masks robbed the Town & Country Sausage Kitchen, Inc., at nearby Tallmadge of $3,000 about 15 minutes before closing time Friday night. Michael Bates, president of the meat processing firm, told police one of the robbers had a sawed-off shotgun and the other two carried pistols.

Felony Charges Dropped Against Wife In Stabbing

A Wellsville woman accused of stabbing her husband with an icepick outside the Veterans Social Club on Pennsylvania Ave. early the morning of Nov. 18 was given a suspended 60-day term in County Jail Friday after she was convicted of a reduced charge of assault and battery.

After a lengthy hearing, Judge Samuel M. Chertoff pointed out there was not sufficient evidence to hold Mrs. Hannah Foster, 211 2nd St., on a felony charge of assualt with a deadly weapon on her husband, Ezell Foster, 36.

Mrs. Foster had been accused of stabbing her husband with an icepick during an argument outside the club. The husband had testified he was unaware at first that he had been stabbed and said he saw no blood.

Testimony showed that the icepick allegedly used as a weapon passed through four sets of hands before police recovered it from Sam Johnson, steward of the club.

Mrs. Foster, mother of six, was found guilty on the misdemeanor assault count. The terms of probation included a warning from the judge for both to remain away from the East End club.

Curtis, 45-year-old tavern operator and World War II veteran, as safety-service director.

The Republic of Israel was created May 14, 1948.

'It Was Miracle,' Pastor Says

Girl, 4, Regains Sight After 3-Month Blindness

SHERWOOD, Tenn. (AP) — "It was a miracle," said The Rev. Joseph Huske. "I know it."

That was his explanation of how 4-year-old Margaret Jackson suddenly found vision after three months of blindness in this Cumberland Valley town about 75 miles southeast of Nashville.

Doctors who handled the case were unavailable for comment. But Margaret could see again and laugh with the other children, her brown eyes sparkling, her pug nose full of tiny wrinkles.

The story came to light recently when a Nashville Tennessean staff writer, Rudy Abramson, learned of Margaret's recovery. He came to Sherwood to interview Margaret and Father Huske.

The little girl became ill and went blind two years ago. She was taken to Vanderbilt Hospital in Nashville and examined for weeks. Several doctors thought the blindness was caused by lead poisoning. Few gave her parents, Johnny and Charlotte Jackson, any hope she would ever see again.

In time she returned to Sherwood and to the Epiphany Episcopal Mission where her father, a self-taught electrician, carpenter and mason, worked with Father Huske.

"Almost every time I went into the church, Johnny or Charlotte would be there," Father Huske said. "Sometimes both of them would be there with Margaret saying their prayers."

The Jacksons were still praying the following October when the leaves on the mountains around Sherwood started turning. Then one night Margaret became ill again, showing the same symptoms she had just before she lost her sight.

The girl was rushed to Vanderbilt Hospital a second time. But she was feeling better when she arrived and the doctors could find nothing wrong.

Back home once more, Johnny started to light a cigarette and Margaret grabbed for the match. The cigarette was forgotten. Johnny threw his arms around his small daughter and then began striking more matches.

"Every time, she would reach for them," he said. "After that, her sight gradually came back. Her left eye is a little weak now, but she doesn't even need glasses."

The three Jacksons have left Sherwood. Johnny was called into the Army and his wife and daughter recently went to join him at Ft. Polk, La.

But Margaret's "miracle" will never be forgotten by people in these parts.

Gift Tags Made By Multiple Sclerosis Patients Go On Sale

Christmas gift tags made by multiple sclerosis patients and civic organizations have been placed on sale at the First National Bank and the Potters Savings & Loan Co., Miss Marie Wolfe of the East Liverpool MS unit announced today.

The tags have been made from Christmas cards donated by county residents interested in aiding the MS cause, Miss Wolfe said.

Mrs. Darrell Fadely, county chairman, said the tags also are available at stores and financial institutions in East Palestine, Lisbon, Salem, Leetonia and Columbiana.

Proceeds will be used for patient aid and service, Miss Wolfe said. Instructors are available to teach the craft and a demonstration on making the tags will be given during the county MS workshop in February, she added.

Those desiring to aid the project next year may give their cards after the holidays to Miss Wolfe or Mrs. Jeanette Carpenter, public health nurse.

Frank Hancock will serve on the city MS service committee during the coming year. Educational programs and speakers will be available to all organizations as well as a film made at the University of Pennsylvania and narrated by Joan Crawford

Mrs. Charles Chesney, R. N., aided by Mrs. Carpenter, has been surveying patients in the area and registering new patients. The work will extend into January.

The city is a unit of the Columbiana County chapter whose affiliation with the Tru-Mah-Col Chapter in Youngstown enables all registered county patients to obtain necessary equipment and an annual physical examination free of charge on request of the patient's physician.

Dr. R. C. Costello of East Liverpool has served on the medical advisory board of the Tru-Mah-Col Chapter since it was chartered by the national society.

The board has approved a rehabilitation program also available to county patients, Miss Wolfe said.

Navy Jet Pilot Sets World Mark Of 1,650 M.P.H.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy, claiming a world's jet speed record of 1,650 miles an hour for its F4H Phantom II fighter, decorates its pilot today with the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Marine Lt. Col. Robert B. Robinson, 38, of Downey, Calif., piloted the Phantom in the record hop Wednesday from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Robinson's Phantom blasted Friday to a top speed of 1,650 miles per hour—2½ times the speed of sound.

A BETTER MEMORY CAN CHANGE YOUR LIFE!

Wider horizons invite those who develop their natural power to remember

By SIGMUND BLOMBERG
with Jerry Klein

Billed as "America's foremost memory expert," Sigmund Blomberg lives in Asheville, N. C., but travels all over America lecturing on memory training. More than 200 newspapers have published his memory columns and sponsored his courses. Among his feats is riffling through a newspaper and later describing the entire contents from memory!

THERE'S A classic story about a man who had such a wonderful idea one day that he fell to his knees to thank God for it. But when he arose he discovered that the great idea had completely skipped his mind!

For more than 20 years now, I have been helping people learn how to improve their memories. My system is built on a handful of simple rules, on the association of ideas, word-pictures, and the use of "key" words.

Yet it has enabled people to do things with their memories they never believed possible. It seems to be absolutely true, as psychologists have stated, that the average man doesn't exercise more than a tenth of his natural power of memory.

The memory system I use is based on relating something old and remembered with something new that you want to remember. I use a list of simple words you can learn easily and which become the something "old" in your mind with which you can associate the something "new." These key words sound like numbers, which actually they represent. For example, the first key word is "gun," which sounds like the figure, "one." The second key word is "glue," which sounds like the figure, "two."

Now suppose that before going to sleep, you suddenly think of an important phone call as the first thing to do next morning. You recall that the first key word is "gun," and you make a sort of mental movie of a gun associated with a telephone.

Perhaps you see yourself with a gun in hand shooting away at your telephone. Make this picture vivid! It will stimulate your imagination and help you remember to make that call in the morning.

I recommend another device to recall names. Take, for example, the names of the Great Lakes. Since there are so many beautiful homes around the lakes, why not have the letters in the word "homes" remind you of the names of the lakes? Thus, H would be for Huron, O for Ontario, M for Michigan, E for Erie, and S for Superior. Automatically, your memory in this regard is far better than the average person's!

But such little "tricks" are merely crutches, tools to be used temporarily to goad our memories. Eventually, they can be dropped as our natural power of memory grows stronger.

OFTEN I AM ASKED how I ever became a memory expert. The truth is that I wanted to be a doctor, but after a couple of years at the University of North Carolina, I realized I simply couldn't remember all the information a physician needs.

Then came three jobs, every one of which I lost simply because my memory was so poor! Working in a haberdashery, for example, I was trying to improve my memory for names when in walked a big customer and, trying to impress him with my keen business acumen, I let go with a cheery, "It's good to see you, Mr. Blowhard."

My memory had dropped a stitch again. The important patron's name was Hornblower. That was strike three—and out!

If I didn't realize it before, I knew then and there how crucial it can be to get a person's name straight. At the library, I studied various works on memory training and finally came on the volume which forms the basis of my system, "The Art of Memory" by Francis Fauvel-Gouraud, a 19th-century Frenchman.

OF COURSE, after my experience with Mr. Hornblower, I didn't need to be told that remembering a person's name makes a good impression on him or that calling someone by name is the most subtle compliment you can possibly pay a fresh acquaintance!

In fact, a sales manager once told me: "In selling, if a man knows how to remember names and faces, he can violate all the other principles and still be successful." The things to remember are: pay attention to the person's name; observe the person's face closely, then associate it with some colorful mental picture, however absurd it may seem.

For instance, a Mr. Smith I know is a happy-go-lucky soul who always sports a ready smile. When I began thinking of him as "Smiling Smith," I had no more trouble remembering his name, although it's common enough!

Just be careful to avoid the common subterfuge used by the fellow who met a woman he had been introduced to before, but whose name he had forgotten. "You know, I remember you well," he said to the woman, "but I have forgotten the spelling of your name—will you remind me?"

"Certainly," the female replied in cold tones. "Just the same old way. It's J-o-n-e-s!"

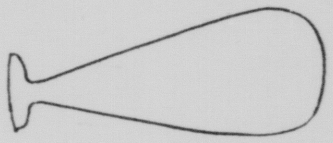
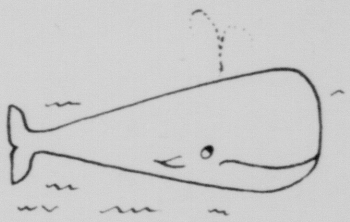
Let's Draw a Whale

By Ann Davidow



To a baseball bat
That's big and fat
We add a fishy tail,

An eye and a fin,
A mouth with a grin,
And suddenly it's a whale!



WHAT ANIMAL IS IT?

"Yap! Yap! Yap!" This yelping bark, sometimes a shrill howl, is made by this animal that looks a little like a small dog. Look at his bushy tail, his erect triangular ears, and his sharp muzzle, and you will be sure he is not a dog.

He makes his home in a burrow in the ground or else in a hollow tree stump. Here his wife cares for three to nine babies a year and protects them carefully for at least two months. In daytime this fellow is hard to find but at night—all year round—out he comes to hunt all sorts of things. Birds, gophers, poultry, rabbits, lambs, and even frogs are on his menu. So are fish, insects, and berries.

The scientific name for this sly, clever animal whose fur is valuable is Volpes fulva, but you guess his everyday name and color him in his natural colors.

Man on the Spot

He has given West Point everything it wants in football —except a win over Navy; next Saturday he gets another chance—with a close-knit family as his greatest rooters

By TOM MEANY

THE COLLEGE football season is nearly over. The heroes and goats are clearly defined—except at West Point and Annapolis. Until the Cadets and Middies bump heads next Saturday, neither academy can call this season a success or failure.

"After all," says Dale Hall, coach at West Point since 1959, "this is the game for both schools. The season stands or falls on what you do in this game."

Coming from Hall that's quite a statement. Here's a coach whose teams have won some big ones—a coach who, at last, has convinced the experts he is the ideal successor to Earl "Red" Blaik, for 18 years Mr. Football-on-the-Hudson. Yet Hall is the first to admit that no coach really "arrives" at West Point until he has beaten Navy. And that is something Hall's teams haven't been able to do.

Next Saturday, though, Hall hopes to snare that elusive, luscious triumph, too. For one thing, Navy has lost its great back, Joe Bellino, and for another, Hall's coaching system is beginning to jell. Dale showed last season that he can utilize his scouting reports to contain a great star on the other team. Army did a superb job against Ernie Davis of Syracuse last fall, and in the Navy game the Cadets held Bellino fairly well after a furious start by the great Middie back.

In the early games this year, Hall was under a handicap due to injuries to Joe Blackgrove, the back who had speed to go to the outside. This placed a burden on Al Rushatz, a great plunging back. Without Blackgrove, Army had to go through the middle or rely on Dick Eckhert's passes.

If not plagued with additional injuries, Hall will present Navy with a versatile attack on Saturday, and that night he expects to enjoy a hearty victor's meal—truly a man who has everything.

Include in that everything a most important ingredient for any man seeking success in a competitive field—a family that is full of confidence and reassurance.

CERTAINLY a victory over Navy will be as sweet to Faye Hall as to her husband. "Since he became head coach," she says, "many things are different for me—even watching a game. When Dale was an assistant, I used to hope Coach Blaik wouldn't find fault with the department he was supervising (defensive backfield). Now I find myself worrying whether the team will come out on top—especially on the last Saturday of the season."

For the Hall family, many things have changed since Dale's appointment to head coach. As an assistant under Blaik, for example, Dale, Faye, and their three young children had lived in comfortable quarters on the post, but moving into Blaik's former house, built especially for Earl, was the equivalent of going from a housing project to the Waldorf-Astoria. And Faye found herself unwittingly having to take on the role of queen bee, rather than remaining just one of the gang.

The Hall house—officially known as Quarters 1001—is red-brick Georgian trimmed with white and featuring bow windows. The rooms are large—the recreation room in the basement is big enough for Dale to hold full-scale meetings of the coaching staff—but Faye is especially fond of the back yard, a hedge-enclosed area about 50 by 20 yards, with a splendid view of the Hudson.

It's in the back yard that the Halls' three daughters, Laura Jean, 11, Mary Susan, 9, and Janet Faye, 7, let off steam. And this is where Mrs. Hall feeds some 60 football players at the end of spring practice drills.

"I've never seen a piece of beef as large as the one served at these cookouts," says Joe Cahill, athletic publicist at the Academy. "I think it's called a 'steamboat round,' and it must weigh 80 pounds. I know I took the bone home to my dog after one of the parties, and the bone alone weighed three or four pounds. Needless to say, the football squad had picked it clean."

Faye—her full name is Laura Faye—and Dale were high-school sweethearts in Parsons, Kan. Mrs. Hall, a slim, vivacious brunette, married Dale after his graduation from the Academy, where he'd been an outstanding all-around athlete.

"A funny thing happened in those days," Faye recalls. "Dale wore glasses back in Kansas but discarded them when he came to the Academy. He had his eyes examined later by a specialist, who told him it would be impossible for him to play any athletics without the aid of glasses—yet Dale had played football, basketball, and tennis at West Point without them!"

And he became the only Army cager ever selected as a first-team All-American.

AFTER GRADUATION, Dale had four years to serve in the Army as a second lieutenant. Three of them were in Germany; Faye traveled with him. During this time, Dale coached the Second Constabulary Regiment team. After discharge, there were assistant-coaching stints at Purdue, New Hampshire, and the University of Florida. It was the lack of top-position experience that made many wonder whether Hall could step into Blaik's shoes. Dale has done a good job quieting these doubts, and Faye is proud of his uphill achievements—but takes no credit for herself.

She has definite ideas as to her place as wife of a head coach. "I've never attended a football-practice session, not even when Dale was an assistant," she explains. "I think a coach's wife would be as out of place at a football drill as a professor's wife in one of his classrooms. I know I wouldn't want Dale hanging around at any Brownie meeting I was conducting."

In addition to her role as hostess to the football staff, Faye has the usual problems of a suburban wife and mother. "Look here," says Faye, pointing to a small metal sign in her home. "Grandma Hall had this sign made after she minded the youngsters for a couple of days." The sign, professionally printed, read: "Baby Sitters Beware."

It's this easy humor at home that acts as a relief valve for Dale when football pressures build up, as they are doing this week.

But no member of the Hall clan will deny that the best outlet for everybody at Quarters 1001 will be a long-sought victory over Navy.

Dale Hall's most enthusiastic rooters are his wife Faye and their three daughters, Mary Susan, Laura Jean, and Janet Faye.

What Women Learn

Every wife and husband can strengthen their marriage by heeding the advice of these interviews with divorce attorneys and divorcees in Reno, Nev.

By FRANCESCA LIBERTE

Dear Mr. Shaw-Field:

I'm writing so you'll get some satisfaction in knowing you were right! I've remarried, and he's so like my first husband that it's positively eerie at times. But my marriage is working out this time. Because now I'm different. . . .

THIS NOTE, from a 22-year-old divorcee we'll call "Marcia," is typical of hundreds in the files of John Shaw-Field, a prominent attorney in that famed unhitching post: Reno, Nev.

Shaw-Field—who has probably dealt with more divorcees than any other attorney in the country—feels Marcia's divorce was tragic because it was so unnecessary.

Marcia charged mental cruelty. But the truth was that she couldn't tolerate even minor faults in her husband. Her biggest complaint was that he repeatedly returned home late for dinner, treating her "no better than a hired cook."

He'd stop after work with the boys. He'd even stay at the office chatting with the boss. His wife's dictum that dinner was served at 6 p.m. sharp held no real importance for him. If the food was cold, he'd shrug it off.

"So what if it's cold, honey?" he'd say. "I don't mind—it's good enough for me."

The final showdown occurred 11 months after their wedding. About 7:15 one evening Marcia greeted Jeff at the door by throwing the pot roast at him. He tried to placate her, but the potatoes, broccoli, and salad followed.

This was too much for good-natured Jeff. Aggrieved and not understanding Marcia at all, he slept that night at his sister's house. Marcia said she lost face with her in-laws . . . and . . . and . . . she went to Reno.

Shaw-Field made arrangements for me to talk with Marcia, who had since remarried.

"Did I learn anything from my divorce?" she repeated my question. "I'll say I did! Although I didn't realize it at the time, I was beginning to learn during the divorce proceeding itself. I lived in a boardinghouse with about 32 other girls 'taking the cure,' as some called it. We used to talk, talk, talk, airing our beefs. I noticed how we all complained about this fault and that. Things Jeff was good about, other husbands were bad about. And vice versa.

"After the decree, I did a lot of dating. I noticed all the men were irritating, in one way or another. But I learned to put up with them because I didn't want to be alone.

"Then I married Carl. Like Jeff, he does some things—in fact more things—that set my teeth on edge. But I've learned to live with them. I don't react to irritating situations as I did in my first marriage!"

This, Shaw-Field contends, is what is so disheartening about divorce and why so many of them are unnecessary: after remarrying, women learn that men are much the same; that irritations in one form or another still exist. But they learn this too late.

Another divorce attorney, Robert R. Herz, offered quite a different opinion on what divorcees learn.

"The important thing they learn by the time they enter their second marriage is proper perspective of love," he explained. "To my mind, thousands of young women in this country enter marriage with a storybook, Hollywood notion of love, and subsequently have completely unrealistic expectations. This has broken up many a home or at least made it an unhappy one.

"Coupled with this, a woman is constantly in love—it's 90 percent of her life. To a man it's a small segment. He has more social and business contacts. His mind is occupied with many things related to his livelihood.

"But a woman! She loves to play the game of romance. For example, she enjoys the business of waiting for her husband at the door and giving him that first 'hello' kiss. In fact, she probably relishes the idea of it more than the kiss itself. Whereas if her husband follows his natural inclination, he's very likely to come in sniffing and asking, 'What's for dinner?'

"When women feel they've been taken for granted," Herz continued, "they retaliate by not doing the little things that make marriage especially pleasant, and the union deteriorates. Divorce is often the next stop."

When Not to Argue

A recent survey conducted by an Eastern university on the subject of emotions revealed that "timing" could be a vital factor in the success of a marriage. The survey concluded that family quarrels were more likely to result if issues were discussed early in the morning, directly before the evening meal, or during pressing periods at the office.

Women just naturally seem to like to sit down and "resolve" issues—apparently any time. Men apparently don't—any time.

With divorce, a woman seems to gain insight, even shrewdness, regarding timing and diplomacy. Now on her own, she wants to circulate, to be accepted—and the social situations she finds herself in require care. She usually goes back to work, and learns that she has to have a good deal of tact to get along with her employer.

Call it buttering up if you will, but by her second marriage, she is no longer the bull in the china shop, but the smooth-talking saleswoman, selling her husband on what she wants—at the proper time!

According to divorce attorneys, women just naturally expect more prestige and material gain when they marry for the first time. Psychologically, the female feels, even if only vaguely, that life will be better than it was before marriage—and "better" means that someday, somehow her husband will shower her with "the good things of life."

Women often do not realize this. But as the marriage goes on, they become discontent. Since they are not getting what they subconsciously expect, they tolerate little from their husbands and give even less. They are divorced before they ever marry.

It is astounding, however, how many of these very same divorcees happily settle for less in their next marriage. During the interim, they come to realize that if a husband is a good provider it is enough—position and riches are no longer important.

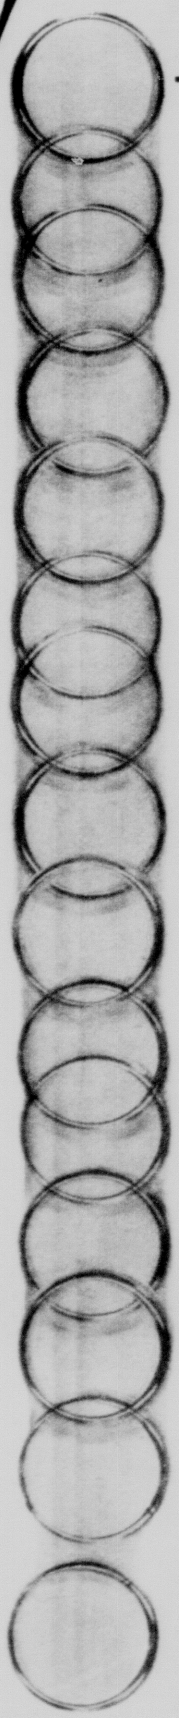
About Divorce—



Too Late!

Is there a woman alive who has not issued an ultimatum?

"If you don't like it, why don't you leave?" is a common one. "Apparently we don't agree on anything. Maybe we should call it quits," is a favorite. "If this is the way it's going to be, maybe I should go home to my mother's for a while," is still another form.

Unfortunately, in order to get their way, women—far more than men—are addicted to issuing ultimatums. Almost from the beginning of marriage, they do this terrible thing almost casually, little surmising they are wielding a dangerous weapon. For an ultimatum is a deadly, yet subtle, deteriorating influence on a marriage.

"A woman should never issue an ultimatum unless she's prepared to accept the consequences," attorney O. W. Cromwell advised, "because in doing so she actually conditions her husband to the idea of a divorce. Women learn too late that, through the years, they were actually putting words into their husbands' mouths. When they face the world alone again, they learn what it means to be more astute—they learn how to keep their mouths shut!"

Don't Be Too Possessive

I asked numerous divorcees whether they made any attempt at self-examination to determine if they themselves may have contributed to the estrangement between them and their husbands. In reply, one fault was acknowledged by many women.

"Now that I think back, if I made any mistake it was that of being too possessive," Lena R. declared. "There's an old saying, 'Hold someone dear, but hold him lightly!' Had I 'held him lightly,' I think now that we would have had more fun together—instead of our marriage being the grim-as-death thing it was."

Said another divorcee: "I wish women's magazines would drop all their articles on this 'togetherness' bit. By the time I forced my husband into a 'togetherness team,' I think he secretly hated me."

And another: "The more I tried to be a good pal to my husband, the more he wanted to turn to his other pals, and this used to make me mad. A funny thing: about the last six months of our marriage I knew it was over and just let him go. And you know, he was a lot more fun to be with! But it was too late. There was too much rancor between us by that time."

Are There Last-Minute Doubts?

Do women who leave home to shed their husbands suffer pangs of doubt at the last minute?

In living with them for a month, I learned this startling fact: most women feel righteous to the end—with the exception of those in one category. These are wives who fled their spouses because they found them involved with another woman.

Why does such a wife, unlike her sisters with other kinds of grievances, have last-minute doubts? The battery of advice she has had before leaving home undoubtedly has its effect. Infidelity is something wives cannot condone, but unlike such other husbandly failures as alcoholism, drug addiction, compulsive gambling, and job shirking, it may represent a one-time weakness on the part of the husband, or it may be a situation corrected by greater understanding and affection on the part of the wife—if she had only waited, forgiven, and buried her pride.

Her ego crushed, however, she invariably fails to handle this problem intelligently. On the contrary, she takes all the wrong steps, steps which inexorably force her to seek divorce, a move she really had not meant to take in the beginning.

Like most "deceived" women, she runs crying to her friends and relatives, not realizing that later she'll feel she has "lost face" in their eyes if she doesn't retaliate against her wayward husband.

No matter what anyone says of the modern divorcee—that she is gay, sure of herself, and eager "to go"—I see that she's still fearful. She's "running scared." And, like any frightened creature, her eyes and ears are highly receptive to self-protective measures.

Thus, though too late to save her first marriage, she absorbs new insights and attitudes that will make her a better person in the future. And she learns another thing which would have helped prevent her divorce:

You can live alone—but you won't like it!

WHO AM I?

Christians, too, can feel the lack of identity which marks life today. But Christians have found that in God's sight they do count . . . their life does have meaning and purpose. For they have personally discovered Jesus Christ, the Man Extraordinary. But as God's Son He is more than a man. He died and rose from the dead and lives for them today. Through Him, God enters their lives, giving them direction, meaning, and fulfillment.

Do you know this Christ? Do you know yourself? You, too, can find yourself in Him. As a step in your search for identity, request this free booklet, WHO AM I?

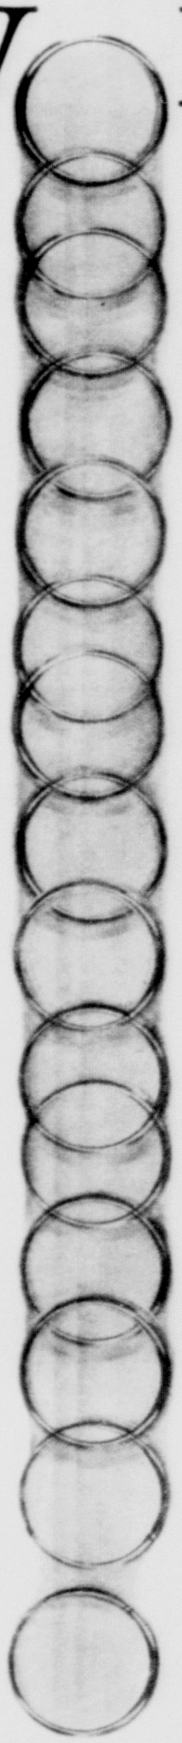
About Divorce—



Too Late!

less in their next marriage. During the interim, they come to realize that if a husband is a good provider it is enough—position and riches are no longer important.

Is there a woman alive who has not issued an ultimatum?

"If you don't like it, why don't you leave?" is a common one. "Apparently we don't agree on anything. Maybe we should call it quits," is a favorite. "If this is the way it's going to be, maybe I should go home to my mother's for a while," is still another form.

Unfortunately, in order to get their way, women—far more than men—are addicted to issuing ultimatums. Almost from the beginning of marriage, they do this terrible thing almost casually, little surmising they are wielding a dangerous weapon. For an ultimatum is a deadly, yet subtle, deteriorating influence on a marriage.

"A woman should never issue an ultimatum unless she's prepared to accept the consequences," attorney O. W. Cromwell advised, "because in doing so she actually conditions her husband to the idea of a divorce. Women learn too late that, through the years, they were actually putting words into their husbands' mouths. When they face the world alone again, they learn what it means to be more astute—they learn how to keep their mouths shut!"

Don't Be Too Possessive

I asked numerous divorcees whether they made any attempt at self-examination to determine if they themselves may have contributed to the estrangement between them and their husbands. In reply, one fault was acknowledged by many women.

"Now that I think back, if I made any mistake it was that of being too possessive," Lena R. declared. "There's an old saying, 'Hold someone dear, but hold him lightly!' Had I 'held him lightly,' I think now that we would have had more fun together—instead of our marriage being the grim-as-death thing it was."

Said another divorcee: "I wish women's magazines would drop all their articles on this 'togetherness' bit. By the time I forced my husband into a 'togetherness team,' I think he secretly hated me."

And another: "The more I tried to be a good pal to my husband, the more he wanted to turn to his other pals, and this used to make me mad. A funny thing: about the last six months of our marriage I knew it was over and just let him go. And you know, he was a lot more fun to be with! But it was too late. There was too much rancor between us by that time."

Are There Last-Minute Doubts?

Do women who leave home to shed their husbands suffer pangs of doubt at the last minute?

In living with them for a month, I learned this startling fact: most women feel righteous to the end—with the exception of those in one category. These are wives who fled their spouses because they found them involved with another woman.

Why does such a wife, unlike her sisters with other kinds of grievances, have last-minute doubts? The battery of advice she has had before leaving home undoubtedly has its effect. Fresh Mushroom Sauce

TO PREPARE AND COOK: ABOUT 20 MIN.

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ½ lb. mushrooms, sliced through stems and caps
- ½ cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon black pepper
- 1 cup cream

1. Heat butter in skillet over low heat; add mushrooms and celery and cook until mushrooms are lightly browned, stirring occasionally. Remove vegetables with a slotted spoon and set aside.

2. Stir in a mixture of flour, salt, pepper; heat until bubbly. Remove from heat and gradually add cream, stirring constantly. Bring to boiling and cook 1 to 2 min. longer, stirring constantly. Blend in vegetables. Serve hot. About 2 cups sauce

Curried Turkey and Wild Rice

TO PREPARE: 30 MIN. TO HEAT: 35 MIN.

- 4 cups cooked wild rice
- 4 cups diced cooked turkey
- 4 hard-cooked eggs, diced
- 1 cup chopped parsley
- 5 tablespoons melted butter
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon curry powder
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1¼ cups undiluted evaporated milk

1. Put first six ingredients into a large bowl. Sprinkle with a mixture of curry powder and salt. Toss lightly until well mixed. Turn into a greased 2½-qt. casserole.

2. Pour evaporated milk over mixture. Sprinkle evenly with paprika.

3. Heat in a 350°F oven about 35 min. 8 servings

Note: Cooked brown or white rice may be substituted for the wild rice, if desired.

Turkey-Lime Ring

TO PREPARE: 45 MIN. TO CHILL: ABOUT 4 HRS.

- 3 egg yolks
- 1 cup milk
- ¾ cup turkey broth
- 1 3-oz. pkg. lime-flavored gelatin
- ¼ cup white wine vinegar
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 3 cups finely chopped cooked turkey
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons minced water cress
- 2 tablespoons chopped green olives
- 1 teaspoon grated onion
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

5. Meanwhile, mix turkey and next seven ingredients. Blend into gelatin mixture; fold in the whipped cream.

6. Spoon into mold and chill until firm, about 3 hrs. Unmold onto a chilled serving plate and garnish with a wreath of water cress. Serve with horse-radish, if desired. 8 servings

Turkey Trimmings

A sauce with a twist, flavorful turkey, plus a few minutes in preparation produce a tempting food concoction.

Cranberry-Turkey Fritters

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN. TO DEEP FRY: 3-4 MIN.

Hydrogenated vegetable shortening, lard, or cooking oil for deep frying
1 cup fresh cranberries
1 whole allspice
1 whole clove
½-in. piece stick cinnamon
1¼ cups sugar
2 cups flour
1¼ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 eggs, beaten
¾ cup milk
1½ teaspoons grated lemon peel
1½ cups finely chopped cooked turkey
¼ teaspoon salt

1. Start heating the fat to 365°F.
2. Put cranberries into a saucepan and cover with cold water. Tie next three ingredients together in a cheesecloth bag and add to the cranberries. Cover and cook over medium heat until cranberries burst, about 5 min.; remove spice bag and stir in sugar.
3. Cook until mixture becomes clear, stirring occasionally. Drain berries and reserve sirup; set berries aside to cool.
4. Blend together next five ingredients. Mix together eggs, milk, and lemon peel. Stir into flour mixture; beat until batter is just smooth.
5. Sprinkle ¼ teaspoon salt over turkey; toss lightly. Blend turkey and cranberries into batter.
6. Drop by tablespoonfuls into the hot fat. Deep fry only as many fritters at one time as will float uncrowded one layer deep in the fat. Fry 3 to 4 min., or until golden brown and well puffed, turning several times to brown evenly. Remove with a slotted spoon; drain on absorbent paper.
7. Serve immediately with the reserved hot cranberry sirup as a sauce.

About 40 fritters

Perky Turkey Dinner

TO PREPARE AND COOK: 25 MIN.

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 small green pepper, cut in thin strips
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
¼ teaspoon onion salt
1 7-oz. bottle lemon-lime carbonated beverage
1¼ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon diced pimiento
2 cups diced cooked turkey

1. Heat butter in a skillet over low heat; add green pepper strips and cook about 5 min., or until soft.
2. Blend in a mixture of the next three ingredients; heat until bubbly. Remove from heat and add lemon-lime carbonated beverage slowly, stirring constantly. Bring to boiling and cook 1 to 2 min. longer. Reduce heat; blend in last three ingredients. Heat thoroughly, stirring occasionally.
3. Serve over chow mein noodles.

4 servings

Turkey-Biscuit Pinwheel

TO PREPARE: 30 MIN. TO BAKE: 20 MIN.

1 cup chopped cooked turkey
¼ cup chopped fresh mushrooms
⅓ cup thick sour cream
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
1½ cups biscuit mix
½ cup milk
Fresh Mushroom Sauce (see recipe)

1. Mix turkey with the next five ingredients; set aside.
2. Put the biscuit mix into a bowl; stir in the milk to form a soft dough. Turn onto a lightly floured surface and knead with the finger tips three or four times. Roll into a rectangle ¼ in. thick and about 12 in. long.
3. Spread dough with the turkey mixture to within 1 in. of the edge. Then roll up as for a jelly roll, pressing long edge firmly to seal.
4. Place on a lightly greased baking sheet, sealed edge down; bring ends of roll together to form a ring. Overlap and press securely into shape.
5. With scissors or sharp knife, cut ring diagonally from outside almost to center, making 12 uniform pieces. Slightly pull out and twist each section so that cut sides rest almost flat on baking sheet.
6. Bake at 450°F about 20 min., or until golden brown.
7. Serve with Fresh Mushroom Sauce.

MAZOLA just naturally does something special to popcorn... makes it wonderfully light and fluffy. And it stays that way!

Perfect way to pop corn... Pour ¼ cup MAZOLA Corn Oil in heavy skillet or kettle. Heat about 3 minutes. Then add ½ cup popcorn. Cover; leave small air space at edge. Shake frequently until popping stops. Salt to taste. Makes 2 quarts delicious, ready-to-eat popcorn. No butter or margarine needed!

New Ideas for Holiday Treats with traditional Popcorn

Fun to shape and extra delicious—made and flavored with KARO® Syrup!

KARO Syrup has exactly the right sweetness for making these cute Popcorn Novelties taste as special as the Holiday Season itself. And KARO has the texture it takes to turn them out perfectly, every time!

Easy way to candy popcorn... Mix together ⅔ cup KARO Syrup (Red or Blue Label), ⅔ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon salt in heavy saucepan. Cook over moderate heat for 2 minutes or until sugar is dissolved, stirring constantly. (Do not double recipe.) Pour over 2 quarts of popped corn in deep kettle and stir over medium heat 3 to 5 minutes or until corn is evenly and completely coated with mixture. Remove from heat. Use to prepare any of the following:

Snowman... Use KARO Syrup, Red Label. Form 3 popcorn balls—one large for base, one medium for body, one small for head. Press together to form snowman. Press two small balls into place for arms. Use a large gumdrop for hat, cinnamon candies for eyes and nose.

Candle... Use KARO Syrup, Blue Label. Press popcorn mixture into lightly greased empty cream carton. Unmold. Insert small candy cane in top for wick.

Garland... On heavy thread, string white popcorn and whole raw cranberries or gumdrops.

Cranberry-Turkey Fritters

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN. TO DEEP FRY: 3-4 MIN.

Hydrogenated vegetable shortening, lard, or cooking oil for deep frying
1 cup fresh cranberries
1 whole allspice
1 whole clove
½-in. piece stick cinnamon
1¼ cups sugar
2 cups flour
1¼ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 eggs, beaten
¾ cup milk
1½ teaspoons grated lemon peel
1½ cups finely chopped cooked turkey
¼ teaspoon salt

1. Start heating the fat to 365°F.
2. Put cranberries into a saucepan and cover with cold water. Tie next three ingredients together in a cheesecloth bag and add to the cranberries. Cover and cook over medium heat until cranberries burst, about 5 min.; remove spice bag and stir in sugar.
3. Cook until mixture becomes clear, stirring occasionally. Drain berries and reserve sirup; set berries aside to cool.
4. Blend together next five ingredients. Mix together eggs, milk, and lemon peel. Stir into flour mixture; beat until batter is just smooth.
5. Sprinkle ¼ teaspoon salt over turkey; toss lightly. Blend turkey and cranberries into batter.
6. Drop by tablespoonfuls into the hot fat. Deep fry only as many fritters at one time as will float uncrowded one layer deep in the fat. Fry 3 to 4 min., or until golden brown and well puffed, turning several times to brown evenly. Remove with a slotted spoon; drain on absorbent paper.
7. Serve immediately with the reserved hot cranberry sirup as a sauce. About 40 fritters

2. Blend in a mixture of the next three ingredients; heat until bubbly. Remove from heat and add lemon-lime carbonated beverage slowly, stirring constantly. Bring to boiling and cook 1 to 2 min. longer. Reduce heat; blend in last three ingredients. Heat thoroughly, stirring occasionally.
3. Serve over chow mein noodles. 4 servings

Turkey-Biscuit Pinwheel

TO PREPARE: 30 MIN. TO BAKE: 20 MIN.

1 cup chopped cooked turkey
¼ cup chopped fresh mushrooms
⅓ cup thick sour cream
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
1½ cups biscuit mix
½ cup milk
Fresh Mushroom Sauce (see recipe)

1. Mix turkey with the next five ingredients; set aside.
2. Put the biscuit mix into a bowl; stir in the milk to form a soft dough. Turn onto a lightly floured surface and knead with the finger tips three or four times. Roll into a rectangle ¼ in. thick and about 12 in. long.
3. Spread dough with the turkey mixture to within 1 in. of the edge. Then roll up as for a jelly roll, pressing long edge firmly to seal.
4. Place on a lightly greased baking sheet, sealed edge down; bring ends of roll together to form a ring. Overlap and press securely into shape.
5. With scissors or sharp knife, cut ring diagonally from outside almost to center, making 12 uniform pieces. Slightly pull out and twist each section so that cut sides rest almost flat on baking sheet.
6. Bake at 450°F about 20 min., or until golden brown.
